Amtrak may sue Mo-Pac for 'slow' record

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Amtrak, upset by the poor on-time record of its Laredo, Tex., to Chicago train which often forces the busing of passengers the last 300 miles, may sue the Missouri Pacific Railroad.

"mtrak is now examing its legal options," spokesmen Joe Vranich told the Associate Press. "This is the only railroad n the nation against which Amtrak is considering this type of legal action.

"It was acknowledged that one year's worth of negotiating again, again and again zith theMissouri Pacific has not been productive."

Amtrak has these complaints about MoPac:

—It has "one of the worst ontime performance records for Amtrak trains of any railroad in the nountry."

—When nMoPac trains are late, they are later than the national average. —MoPac runs passenger trains too slowly.

—Its freight trains interfere with passenger trains three times as often as other rail-roads.

"This could be aired in the courthouse one day and I don't think we should get into too many details," said H. H. Olmsted, the MoPac official who handles Amtrak business.

Amtrak owns the passenger trains, but 18 private railroads across the country are under contract to use their crews and track to operate them. MoPac, which handles nearly all of the Laredo-St.Louis run, is one of the few which has not signed a contract which rewards ontime performence and penalizes a railroad for being late, Amtrak says.

The IXNTER+American train is scheduled for a daily round-trip over the 1,449 mile route, but between March 2 and July 2, one trip in four ended at St. Louis. A chartered bus was used 29 times to complete the 300-mile trip to Chicago.

In March, the Inter+American was late 84.6 per cent of the time. The late percentage for April was 92.3, and for May it was 70.4. Trains operated by MoPac were nearly twice as late as the Amtrak average in April, and the Inter+American was nearly three times as late — 2½ hours on the average.

Amtrak says the main reason that the Inter+American is so late is interference from MoPac freight trains.

"I personally have been on the Inter+American only to be pulled into every damn siding between St. Louis and Laredo for nearly any freight train going in any direction," Vranich said. "I've never been so angry as on my Inter+American trip from St. Louis to Laredo. We really were treated as a second-class train on a railroad with a first-class physical plant."

Amtrak, MoPac and the Federal Railroad Administration, which inspects track, agree that MoPac's track is among the best in the nation.

Amtrak and the FRA say passenger trains could operate safely at speeds up to 79 miles an hour. MoPac disagrees and limits them to 60 — the top speed for its freights.

The federal law which created Amtrak in 1971, and allowed railroads to turn over their unprofitable passenger service to the government, says "intercity passenger trains...shall be accorded preference over freight trains," Amtrak said.

Asked if Amtrak passenger trains are sidetracked for freights, MoPac spokesman Harry Hammer said: "Many times that does happen." He said some sidings are not long enough to accomodate large freights.

"We have very heavy freight operations," Hammer said. "Our business is serving the majority of the shippers and receivers of freight in the Midwest."

MoPac and Amtrak agree that other factors delay the Inter+American.

"There have been a number of engine failures on their (Amtrak's) locomotives," said Hammer. He also said air conditioning, brakes and electricity have failed on Amtrak's 26-year-old passenger cars, "and when it does you simply have to repair those before you go on."

The National Association of Railroad Passengers, a group that lobbies for good rail passenger service, has urged Amtrak to crack down on the MoPac, which an association spokesman said "has done as bad a job as they could have done. I suppose they are concerned that if they do a good job, they might wind up with more (passenger) trains."

A train always leaves St. Louis for Chicago on time because the majority of passengers ride that portion of the trip, Amtrak says. When the Inter+American is very late, it is terminated at St. Louis because there would not be time to go to Chicago, service the train, and begin the southbound run on time, Amtrak says. It also is much cheaper to bus passengers to Chicago, Amtrak savs.

MoPac handles the first leg of the northbound trip from Laredo to Taylor, Tex. The Missouri+Kansas+Texas Railroad, the Sante Fe, and the Illinois Central Gulf also handle parts of the trip.

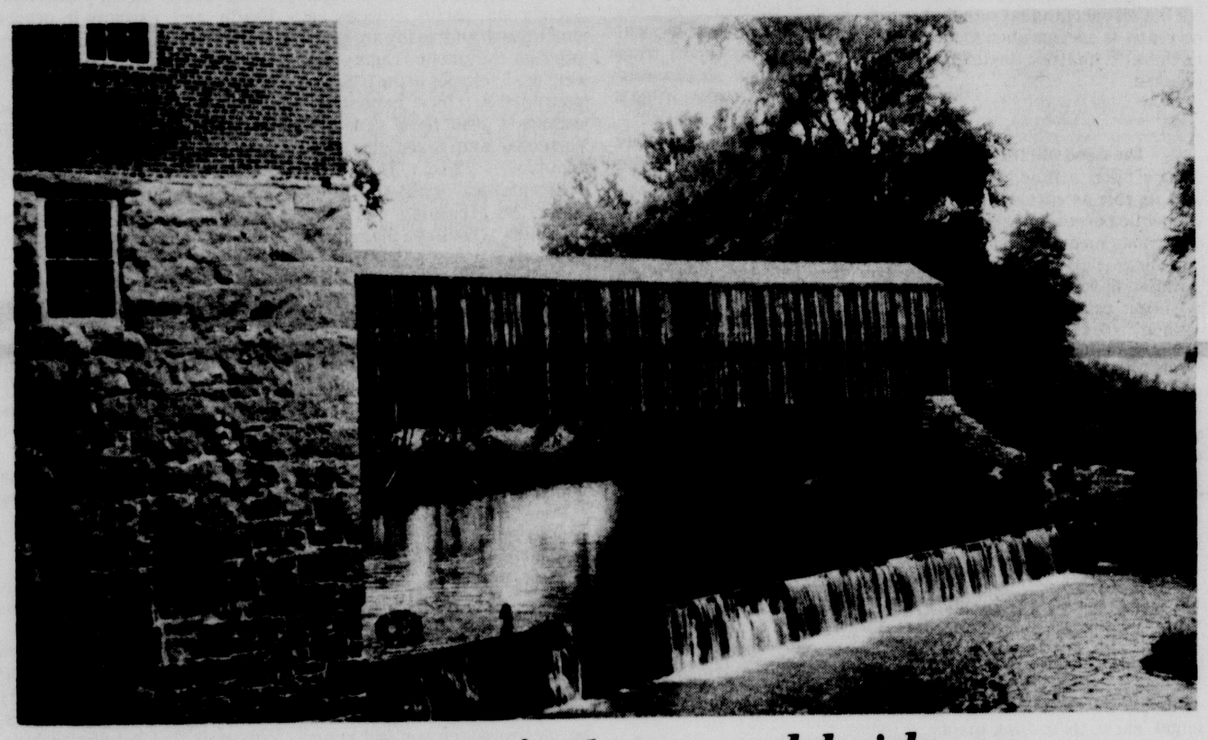

MoPac's on-time record in April, including its Kansas City to St. Louis train, was 45.2 per cent, compared with 88.5 per cent for the MKT, 82.2 per cent for the Sante Fe, and 66 per cent for the ICG.

Hammer said since the MoPac handles the longest leg of the Inter+American run, it has a greater chance to be late. However, Amtrak pointed out that the Sante Fe's record includes a 2,222 mile run from Chicago to Los Angeles.

In 1976, Amtrak carried 44,-991 passengers on the InterAmerican, had revenues of $1.1 million and direct expenses of $2.8 million.

The trip from Fort Worth to Chicago is scheduled to take 25 hours, and the coach fare is $58. The bus fare for the trip, which takes about the same time, is $65.85, and the lowest plane fare is $69.

One of state's 6 covered bridges

One of the six remaining covered bridges in Missouri is this bridge located on State Road HH in Burfordsville, over the Whitewater River. Built above the dam at Bollinger Mill, the bridge was started in 1860 and completed after the Civil war by Burford Lansman and is said to be the largest covered bridge in the state. The bridge and Bollinger Mill State Historic Park are seven miles west of Jackson, off Highway 34. The mill, which was also built prior to the Civil War, is being restored for the public. The historis site park offers visitors an area for picnics, swimming and fishing in the Whitewater River and is slightly over an hour's drive from Sikeston.

Officers find knife believed used to murder Mary Finley

CHARLESTON -- The investigation into the stabbing murder Thursday night of Mrs. Mary Helen Finley, 44, of rural Charleston, is drawing to a close, according to Mississippi County Sheriff Norris Grissom, who said today that "all the evidence has been gathered that is possible to obtain."

Grissom disclosed that the suspected murder weapon has been found and that the car allegedly used by the accused killers has been impounded, processed, and evidence specimens submitted to the crime laboratory for analysis.

Grissom said he is confident that the Tatum brothers : Frankie, 24, and Jimmy, 18, of Anniston, who have been charged in the case, are the only persons who were involved in the crime.

The alleged murder weapon, described as a large folding knife with a five to five-and-one-quarter-inch long lock blade was found following a search at an old bridge on a gravel road about on-and-a quarter miles from the scene. Jimmy Tatum told officers the vicinity where the knife had been thrown.

Grissom said the knife and the car were owned by Jimmy Tatum.

Sherriff Grissom said today, that "Any paper or news media that has quoted or stated any number of times that the woman was stabbed is in error. There is an official count, but it has not been released."

"Any statements up to this time where the news media quotes the sheriff about the woman being raped is erroneous Grissom added."

"No one knows at this point whether Mrs. Finley was raped or not. I seriously doubt it, because of the time element and because of a statment made by one of the defendants. Swabs (of the vaginal area) have been taken and sent to the laboratory but that has not been confirmed;" Grissom said.

Frankie Tatum was arrested Friday afternoon and charged with capitol murder, which carries a maximum penalty of death. Jimmy Tatum's arrest followed Saturday night. He is charged with first degree murder that could carry a maximum sentence of life in prison.

Frankie Tatum is under $1 million bond and Jimmy Tatum is being held under $100,000 bond. Both are to be arraigned Friday in Mississippi County Magistrate Court.

New Madrid sets bond election date

NEW MADRID— The date for a $650,000 bond election was set and a petition against street paving was among business handled by the City Council Monday night.

Aug. 16 was set as the date for a special election, which will ask voter approval for a $650,000 bond issue to be used for the extension and improvement of the city municipal light and power system.

The council gave the go ahead for the bond election, following a report from the bonding firm of Stearn Brothers and Co., Kansas City, who have prepared preliminary porposals for the issue and who will handle issuance of the bonds, if passed.

An ordinance stating the necessity of the bonds, the amount required and setting the election date was unanimously approved by the council.

Passage of the bond issue will probably require an approximate 15 per cent increase in electrical rates in order to repay the bonds from the revenue from the municipal light and power system. The council gave approval for the preparation of a new rate structure study in corporating the anticipated increase.

Betty Coon, 746 Mott St., presented the council with a petition signed by nine property owners fronting the proposed street improvements on Locust Street, which stated that they did not wish to have the improvements made.

A preliminary estimate of cost aired at the July 11 council meeting indicated that the cost per property foot on Locust Street

Plans to close Locust Street are unchanged

DEXTER -- at this point it looks as if the city is fighting a losing battle with the State Highway Department over the proposed closing of Locust Street at Highway 60.

The highway department has proposed an interchange on Highway 60 at Route AD, located west of Dexter, an overpass at One Mile Road and the closing of Locust Street.

The whole plan has stirred controversy in Dexter, with the proposed Locust Street closing causing the most arguments.

At a public hearing in June, Mayor Willis Conner urged the highway department to reconsider the closing of Locust Street. State Rep. Gary Smith has objected to the closing of the road. Conner has written the highway department, protesting the proposed closing.

In a response to that letter from Lionel T. Murray, district engineer with the highway department, which was made public by Conner Monday night, it was stated that plans remain unchanged.

At Conner's request, the department reviewed the decision, which was reaffirmed. Use of the street does not justify the cost of an overpass, Murray said.

The determining factor was the high cost of the overpass, which would be paid for by many, and the benefit, which would be for just a few.

Conner, however, is planning to continue the fight.

City attorney Paul McGhee told Conner that there was no legal action open to the city to reverse the decision, but suggested he could talk with other state officials.

Alderman Les Day suggested the mayor should know some politicians who could reverse the decision.

"I know a few," I can still try," Conner answered.

Fisherman's body found

WAPPAPELLO, Mo. (AP) — The body of a St. Louis fisherman has been recovered from the St. Francis River near Lake Wappapello, the Missouri Boat Commission and Water Patrol said.

Larry Foust, 32, fell into the river Sunday when his boat capsized while he was trying to unsnag a trout line. The body was recovered by the Butler County rescue squad, the water patrol said.

Action on storm sewers postponed at Dexter

DEXTER— The City Council Monday night postponed action on storm sewers after it learned a study of the problem would cost $30,000 and construction could cost millions of dollars and still not solve the problem of water runoff in the city.

Alderman Jack Smarr, who brought up the problem at a previous meeting, agreed with other members of the council that the city does not now have the money, but he would not give up the project.

Gary Gaines, engineer with Trotter Associates, told the council that a study of the water problems would require a runoff analysis and storm sewer evaluation of each drainage basin in an area. A study of the area, typography, land use, type of soil and growth patterns for each basin would have to be made. Then storm water flow rates would have to be determined,

Teasdale signs license plates bill, 16 others

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Revival of special prestige vehicle license plates, but now requiring a $12 fee rather than political contacts, was signed into law today by Gov. Joseph Teasdale.

Teasdale, acting on 17 measures, also signed into law substantial pay boosts for most top-ranking appointed state officials, including members of the Missouri Public Service Commission. That measure is the last part of a multi-million dollar package of official pay hikes that also covered judges, legislators and statewide elected officials.

The special personalized license plate provisons are coupled to requirements that license plates now issued annually be issued for at least five years.

After the actual metal plate is issued, the annual registration will be designated by tabs. The multi-year plate system had been used in Missouri in the past but was abandoned in 1969.

Teasdale had made the license plate bill a priority in his first legislative session after announcing shortly before he took office that he would eliminate the controversial low-numbered license plates that had been available to more than 9,-900 persons at no extra cost for years.

Those plates had been used by state officials in the past to reward political supporters. Teasdale's predecessor, Republican Chirstopher Bond, had waged a four-year battle in the courts to obtain the right to eliminate the prestige plates.

Under the new law, persons will be allowed to select any combination of six numbers and letters for an added fee of $12. The extra fee would be paid annually even though only a tab will be issued four of the five years a person has the same plate.

The combination of the multiyear issuance plus the extra fee for special plates is expected to save the state about $4 million over the five-year cycle.

The bill also calls for the new plates to carry the slogan "show Me State" and lawmakers and congressmen will have special designated plates if they pay the added $12 fee.

Under the pay raise bill, most state department heads will be paid $40,000 a year beginning in January instead of $30,000, which most now receive. Not included are the directors of the departments of Elementary and Secondary Education, who already receives $40,000, and conservation and transportation, whose salaries are set by the commissions running those departments.

Public Service Commission members, who were highly criticized by the governor during his campaign and two of whom he has now replaced, will get pay raises of $8,000 a year to $36,000. Salaries of the state tax commissioners willing up $7,000 to $25,000.

The bill doubles the number of administrative hearing commissioners, who handle disputes involving state licensing boards, to two and raises the pay from $21,000 to $27,000.

A $1,500 pay raise for probation and parole officers is also included. Teasdale vetoed a separate bill calling for that hike earlier this year but then said he had not vetoed it. But the action raised questions about its validity so lawmakers tacked it onto the other bill to be sure.

The measure also reduces the legal qualifications for persons serving as commissioner of administration and mental health director. Those qualifications had caused problems in filling both posts in the past.

The pay hikes were recommended by a special citizens commission earlier this year and were acted on swiftly by lawmakers. The rest of the pay raise package has already been signed by Teasdale.

That commission also recommended enactment of tough conflict of interest legislation, but opposition to that measure in the Senate killed it on the final night of the session.

Also signed into law by Teasdale were bills:

—Allowing 2nd class counties to set speed limits on county roads lower than authorized by state law.

—Expanding the power of state water patrolmen except for the power of search and seizure.

—Increasing safety requirements for motorboats, bringing them into compliance with federal regulations.

—Improving benefits under the retirement system for public school teachers.

—Providing benefit hikes for members of the local government employes retirement system.

—Permitting doctors at the state Cancer Hospital to receive insurance payments, Medicaid and Medicare for medical or surgical treatment they provide.

—Liberalizing plan options for persons covered under the Kansas City public school retirement system.

—Adding a pension option for persons covered by the Kansas City Public School retirement system.

—Requiring school districts to provide special education services for deaf children.

—Authorizing school boards to purchase liability insurance for the members.

—Making a technical change in the distribution of state aid to schools.

LOBBYING REPORT INACCURATE

..So much opprobrium attaches to the words "Washington lobbyist" that merely to identify a person or organization as such is to imply criticism.

Although lobbying stems directly from the First Amendment guarantee of the right of all Americans "to petition the government for a redress of grievances," in the popular mind is the image of high-pressure salesmen for special interests, armed with unlimited cash and lurking in the corridors and outer offices of Capitol Hill to waylay pliable lawmakers.

Some lobbyists may fit the description. Most, however, work for legitimate organizations with legitimate objectives to promote, and they share with all of us the human ability to perceive that what is good for oneself is good for the nation as a whole.

But in view of the burden of the name the lobbyists carry already, it is adding injury to insult when a report grossly exaggerating the expenditures of the leading congressional lobbies is given circulation, as this writer unwittingly did recently.

According to this story, which seems to have been originated by the same source that claims Adolf Hitler is alive and well in Argentina, the American Postal Workers Union and the National Association of Letter Carriers were far and away the biggest lobbying spenders last year, devoting a total of more than $12 million to attempts to influence legislation. Runner-up was the public interest organization, CommonCause, spending an alleged $5.8 million.

It happens that the figures represent the total incomes of these groups (in the case of Common Cause, more than the total) in 1976. Their actual lobbying expenditures were on the order of a tenth to a fifth as much.

At best, the story, whatever its origin, was a misreading of the financial statements all lobyists are required to file with the clerk of the House of Representatives and the secretary of the Senate.

At worst, it was a deliberate attempt to sensationalize a controversial and much misunderstood subject.

We apologize to all three organizations, and to our readers, for our readiness to believe the worst about "Washington lobbyists" and thereby repeating a canard hat deserved no currency whatsoever.

U.S.-SOVIET TRADE LIMITS

There is no guarantee that the increased trade between the United States and the Soviet Union will prevent war or eventually soften the U.S.S.R. into a liberal democracy.

The two countries could exchange goods with each other for the next 100 years and still be at daggers drawn; ideologically if not militarily.

Even so, every new trade tie with the Soviets adds to a bond of mutual interest that is that much harder to break in anger.

There are two caveats to keep in mind, however.

One is that we never again let ourselves be suckered like a bunch of peasants of the communal farm, as we were in the imfamous 1972 wheat deal. (We seem to have learned that lesson.)

The other is that we permit nothing to be sold to them that would give the Soviets a military boost, or undercut an advantage we have.

The U.S. Commerce Department has upheld the second principle by denying Control Data Corp. of Minneapolis an export license to sell a sophisticated computer system to the SovietSoviet Union.

The computer -- the Cyber 76 -- is designed for use in weather research. But "because it is far more powerful than any computer known to the Soviet Union, the likelihood of diversion to military or strategic uses is of serious concern," the department's export administrator decided.

Control Data is quite upset and says it may appeal. Which inevitably reminds us of the prediction attributed to Lenin that when the last capitalist is hanged, it will be with the rope he sold his executioners.

It can be argued, of course, that anything we sell the Soviets can be diverted to a military or strategic use. A pound of wheat can feed a worker to make a pound of steel to be used in a missile.

But the logical extension of that would be resolutely no trade with the Russians at all, which would be impractical, even if we didn't need their chrome and other resources.

What we don't need, however, is their chrome or rubles in exchange for technology they are years behind us in developing.

Too much American high technology has already been exported to the Soviet Union. This time somebody wisely peeked inside the package.

CONTROLLING HEALTH CARE COSTS

From Newsday, Long Island

Harry Truman was the first president to see the need for national health insurance, and all his successors have proposed the same thing in one form or another. But none has been able to get health insurance enacted because none has found a way to pay for it.

Since Truman's day, medical care costs have climbed five times as fast as the over-all cost of living, which hasn't exactly been standing still. With costs climbing out of sight, presidents have simply declared moot the debate over which form national health insurance should take, and abandoned their drive for it. The question now is whether President Carter is following that same sad precedent.

We don't think so . In fact, he may be the first chief executive to recognize that the nation never will have an effective health insurance program until something is done to bring soaring hospital costs under control.

Carter proposed a program to do just that, and naturally the American Medical Association and various hospital groups are up in arms about it. They argue that they couldn't possibly get by with a 9 per cent boost in revenues next year, as Carter suggests. That's still half again as big as the anticipated rise in the over-all cost of living, but far below the 15 per cent rate of increase that hospital administrators have become accustomed to in recent years.

What are the American people getting in return? The U.S. now spends more for health care than any other nation; yet nobodys seriously argues that it has anything approaching the best medical car. Virtually every industrialized country has had a national health insurance program for years now, but the richest nation in the world still can't afford one.

Carter insists that his commitment to national health insurance is just as strong as it was when he campaigned for president last year. But he argues that "unrestrained health costs . . . restrict our ability to plan necessary improvements in our health care program. . . With current inflation, the cost of any national health insurance program the administration and Congress will develop will double in just five years."

Carter may not be the first president to recognize that rising costs are pricing health insurance out of the nation's reach, but he certainly is the first to realize it this early in his Administration. The fact that he has proposed doing something about it is, in our view, not a cop-out but an encouraging sign that he really is serious aboutgetting national health insurance enacted.

The Good Old Days

Once upon a time, Congress took its role as custodian of the the public purse fairly seriously, as it was meant to do by the Founding Fathers, Harry S. Truman, in running for election in 1948, railed at the "do-nothing" 80th. Congress for sitting on his spending bills.

But as everyone knows by now, those days are long gone. And there is little evidence so fat that the budget control process which Congress legislated for itself three years ago is bringing them back.

When the House Budget Committee set its targets for federal outlays for fiscal 1978, it aimed for expenditures of $462.3 billion. That is $2.9 billion over the target of President Carter, which was, in turn, $19.4 billion above the target of President Ford. If you only count how much the House committee wants to overshoot President Carter, it isn't so bad by past standards, but it's up more than 10 per cent from the budget Congress aimed for in the current fiscal year.

On one point, however, the Budget Committee deserves some credit. It is more conservative than President Carter on its estimates of federal revenues and thus is counting on a fiscal 1978 deficit of $64.3 billion, about $6.6 billion higher than the President projected. If history is any guide, such conservatism is justified. That is about all the evidence we can offer that Congress is working its way towards a more serious view of federal budgeting, but it is better than nothing. —The Wall Street Journal

RURAL DEVELOPMENT SOMETIMES BRINGS PROBLEMS

Audrain and other counties are finding that rural development of water lines sometimes problems that were not anticipated.

Water lines that become leaky and absorb ground water, sometimes of the polluted type, are one. Inadequate sewage disposals to take care of increased flow of waste materials is another.

Both can be controlled, but should be recognized and safeguards taken before trouble starts.

That is another of the reasons why a proposed sewage trunk line around Mark Twain Lake should be pushed and developed as rapidly as possible.

ON MERAMEC DAM

Regardless of what people may or may not think about the advisability of the controversial Meramec Dam, a report from the U.S. Council of Environmental Quality makes it look like a fine financial project.

It has estimated that benefits will be 30 percent annually of the cost of the project.

That sounds to most people like a pretty good investment for the taxpayers. It isn't often, if ever, they get 30 per cent return each year on a government venture, or on any others, even in private life.

It should help change some of the thinking at Washington on the part of those who are opposing the project, and especially so since it is a conclusion of the environmentalists.

POSTOFFICE MAY BE SHOWING THE WAY FOR PRESIDENT CARTER

After years of heavy deficits, the U.S. Postal Service has showed a profit for the last two quarters.

It has done this by cutting down operating costs – mostly by not employing people for jobs that have become vacant because of deaths or retirement.

In many offices, not over half the former number are now employed, yet the service we get appears to be about as good as it was when more were on th payrolls.

Other government departments could probably achieve the savings President Carter wants by following the example of the postal service, since many of the high costs are for wages.

SABOTAGING THE WILL OF THE VOTERS

At Jefferson City last week, the State Senate voted to override the veto of the election disclosure repeal law by Gov. Bond.

The House refused to do so.

The people of Missouri voted overwhelmingly for that law.

They wanted it, and still want it - with some minor amendments that would exempt those holding offices where the pay is nothing or very small, such as school board directors, etc.

It is difficult to understand the reasoning of those Senators who are elected to represent the will of the people, and not their own personal interests, when they voted to repeal a law that was so overwhelmingly supported by the people of Missouri.

If we are to have government by the people, our state Senators must quit meddling with that law, or any law, that the people of Missouri have approved.

If they can't do that, they should be defeated or recalled.

The Failing Corrections System

From The Paragould Daily Press

Sooner or later most of the inmates of this nation's prisons will be set free. And they will either be prepared to re-enter society as useful citizens or embittered and ready to again prey on the public. Eighty per cent of all felonies in the U.S. are committed by repeaters, criminals who have gone uncorrected and fallen into new trouble. This is why rehabilitation, with education and job training as top priorities, whould be the crux of penology.

Correction programs at the federal, state and local levels are dismal, monumental failures. Most prisons and jails are, in fact, crime educational centers. Anyone not a criminal when he or she goes in will be one when he or she gets out. We can break the pattern, but only through concerted emphasis on education and training.

Punishment and custody are proven failures. First offenders and juveniles do not need to be co-mingled with convicted felons. We need to stop punishing and fuining forever the people who can be salvaged. Prison reform does not work.

Research shows that inmates who particiapted in probation, parole, work-release and other community-based programs such as halfway houses are not as likely to commit new crimes. It's up to an enlightened public pushing reluctant public officials to upgrade the corrections system.

For Lawyers Only

From Pensions & Investment

Speaking in Washington April 29 before the Council on Labor Law and Labor Relations, Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall said in part:

"When Congress passed the Employe Retirement Income Security Act, it was often described as the Lawyers and Accountants Relief Act of 9174. The law has a simple purpose—to guarantee the security of the pensions of American workers. But it is breath-taking to annonlawyer like myself how much legal language and how many regulations are needed to carry out that simple principle.

"I still am a little confused why ERISA has to be so complicated. But when I first became Secretary of Labor, I still thougth that I would be able to find out.

"I remember that I called in one of our lawyers and I've since learned that we have 300 of them and asked him to bring me the law and let me read it.

"He said, 'It wouldn't do you any good. You couldn't understand it?' He just said flatly, 'Well, you just can't.' So I said, 'Well, do you understand it?' He replied, 'Yes, but I'm a lawyer.'

"That stopped me for a moment. So I tried another tack. 'Well, can you write it so I can understand it? He agreed that he could write it so I could understand it. But, he said, 'We wouldn't be able to enforce it then.'

"There seems to be a general rule in government that things have to be so complicated that only lawyers understand them before you can enforce them."

TAX-FREE INCOME

According to U.S. News & World Report, it'll save you a lot of trouble in filing out your federal income tax return if you keep in mind th kinds of income that are exempt from tax.

Here is a check-list of the most common types of income that you do not have to report on your return:

Payments from accident, health and casualty-insurance policies. Life insurance proceeds received on the death of the insured.

Social Security benefits and basic railroad-retirement pensions.

Interest on state and municipal bonds.

Federal income-tax refunds. Interest on them is taxable, though.

Gifts and inheritances.

Reimbursement to foster parents for child care. Child support payments received from a former spouse. But alimony is taxable.

Scholarships and fellowships if granted for work toward a degree.

Reimbursement from your employer for business travel and meals.

A cash rebate on the purchase of and automobile.

Veterans Administration payments to veterans and their families, including diability compensation, pensions, education and training benefits, and dividents on VA insurance.

Unemployment, workers' and federal employes' compensation payments.

Subsistence, uniform and quarters allowances for armed forces members.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

BUREAUCRATIC DETENTE

By JACK ANDERSON and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON— The top brass of the Justice Department's Antitrust Division and the Interstate Commerce Commission got together in the backrooms the other day to discuss their mutual animosities. Everyone shook hands and, immediately afterward, the antittrust officials began pulling their punches to spare the ICC from embarrassment.

Here are the fascinating events that led to the detente between the two bureaucratic baronies:

The ICC's reluctant regulators had been fuming over some stinging criticism from the Justice Department's trustbusters. The Antitrust Division uncharitably had blasted the ICC for several anticonsumer decisions.

This stirred the ICC's new boss, A. Daniel O'Neal, to seek a peace conference with the Justide Department's acting antitrust chief John Shenefield. They sat down together behind closed doors, each attended by aides.

An O'Neal aide asked the antitrust officials, please, to stop issuing "chear-shot press releases" against the ICC. O'Neal put it more delicately, with apparent sincerity, he offered to incorporate more antitrust philosophy into ICC decisions.

By all accounts, the trustbusters were so overcome by O'Neal's cooperative attitude that they rushed out and reversed an earlier decision to challenge another ICC ruling.

This was a ruling to deny a small bus company, Latin Express Service, the right to provide limited service between Miami, Fla., and Union City, N.J. The company wanted to serve Spanish-speaking travelers who had difficulty on Greyhound and Trailways buses.

Latin Express, for example, would have provided bilingual drivers and food with a Spanish flavor. Yet ICC denied the little company permission to run only two or three round trips a week. The ICC ruling, incredibly, claimed this limited service might harm the busing giants, Greyhound and Trailways.

The Antitrust Division, which is supposed to encourage competition, objected to the reidculous ruling. One fuming antitrust official called it "so outrageous as to boggle the mind." It was "absurd," he said, "to think Latin Express could have diverted enough revenue from Greyhound or Trailways" to endanger them.

The Antitrust Division, therefore, decided to challenge the ICC decision, and another sharp statement was started through the bureaucratic machinery. But then the trustbusters, basking in the warm glow of their meeting with O'Neal, changed their minds about the Latin Express case.

A spokesman acknowledged, quite candidly, that the antitrust chiefs didn't want to attack the ICC so soon after the truce with O'Neal. So the spirit of detente prevailed, much to the outrage of some antitrust officials who thought the Latin Express decision was a travesty.

Unfortunately for O'Neal's sensibilities, however, the top trustbusters forgot to tell the press office about their change of heart. The unwitting press office, therefore, issued another blistering release.

"For the second time in two months," declared the embarrassing release, "the Department of Justice has challenged an ICC decision denying a small bus company authority to provide new intercity service."

The release quotes the antitrust deputy chief, Joe Sims, as proclaiming: "The Commission's decision points up the impossible burden placed on enw applicants for motor carrier operating authority by the ICC, even when the proposed service is highly specialized and the applicant is very small."

The only trouble with the press release was that the ICC ruling was not challenged as advertised, and the decision to drop the challenge was made by Joe Sims.

Footnote: A Justice Department spokesman confirmed most of our facts but said the Latin Express case did not involve significant new antitrust issues.

CIA MEMO -- The Central Intelligenc Agency had no comment last May when we quoted from House investigative files that the CIA was in contact with Lee Harvey Oswald in Dallas on the eve of the John F. Kennedy assassination.

The files described an interview with a Cuban CIA operative, named Antonio Veciana. He told House investigators that he had seen Oswald in the company of a CIA agent who went by the name of Morris Bishop.

The CIA, though maintaining official silence, reacted to our story in an internal memo. We have obtained a copy of the memo which, in fairness, we are now pleased to publish.

This memo, written nine days after the column appeared, is addressed to the CIA's "Deputy Director for Operataions." It states: "The Jack Anderson column of 6 May 1977 alluded to 'the CIA man, Morris Bishop,' in Dallas . . . The CIA did not have contact in Dallas with Lee Harvey Oswald . . .

"We have run exhaustive traces to identify Morris Bishop without success. The name Morris Bishop has never been used as a registered alias or pseudonym nor has anyone with that name ever been employed by the CIA."

WHO'S NEWS -- Henry Kissinger has told associates firmly that he won't write a kiss-and-tell book about his eight years as America's top diplomat. He wants to provide a meaningful account of the tumultuous events that he helped to guide.

-- Dr. Roger E. Brinner has taken a leave of absence from Data Resources, Inc., to become a senior staff economist for President Carter's Council of Economic Advisers. Data Resources does an annual $100,000 business with the council. A spokesman said Brinner would be hired anyway because of his "high professional competence" but that special guidelines have been drafted to avoid any conflict of interest.

VENICE A LA HEMINGWAY

VENICE, ITALY — Every person who comes to Venice is influenced in some way by one of the great writers who has written about the city. Hemingway has probably influenced me more than anyone, and without "Across the River and Into the Trees" I doubt if I'd even have enjoyed being there.

Take, for example, the night when I went to dinner at the Gritti Palace Hotel with my wife. It was a good dinner, an imposing dinner, a strong dinner, and the lobster he was good. When he arrived he was dark and green and unfriendly and cost a day's wages, but when they grilled him he was red and I wouldn't have traded five sleeping bags for him.

I looked across the table at my wife. She looked good. Almost as good as the lobster. "She looks as lovely as a gondola," I thought to myself, "or Stan Musial or Joe DiMaggio. She could drive a home run into the canal if I let her." I held her hand tightly. "I love you and I'm glad you're you," I told her. "Daughter, let's go for a ride in a gondola after dinner."

"So you can ogle the Italian women?"

"Please, daughter. You must try to understand my attitude. When you have killed so many you can afford to be a little wild."

"How many have you killed?"

"One hundred and eighty sures, not counting possibles."

"An you have no remorse?"

"None."

"Well, I do, and you'd better watch your step."

"Come, daughter, come, let's not think of women. We will find a gondola and you will be you and I will be me and the gondolier will be him."

"I'm warning you about this daughter business."

We found a gondola which was long and good and brave and true and it was our gondola for as long as we wanted it, for that's how it is in Venice. A man can either take a gondola or leave it alone. Only tourists and lovers take gondolas in Venice, I thought. Tourists and lovers and people who can afford them.

"Why can't we take a motorboat?" my wife asked. "A gondola is awfully slow."

"Because you're my wife and we're alone and its is Venice and I want to hold you close and I want you to hold me close and anyway it's cheaper than taking a motorboat."

"The canal smells," she said.

"So does war. So do the Russians. So do lobsters and garlic and perfume. Everything smells, daughter. We've just got to get used to it. Have you ever wrestled a bear?"

"I want to go back to the hotel," my wife said. "The gondola or the lobster has made me sick."

"All right, I'll take you home and read you Dante and tell you about war and the very brave boys and guys like Pete Quesada and Red Smith and the Montana National Guard. Now before you get sick, daughter, kiss me and love me straight and true."

It must have been the last "daughter," because before I knew it I was in the canal with all my clothes on. But it was good to be alive and wet and in love and in Venice. Hemingway couldn't have had a better time.

MOON DAY. July 20. Anniversary of man's first landing on Moon. Two U.S. astronauts (Neil Alden Armstrong and Edwin Eugene Aldrin, Jr.) landed lunar module 'Eagle' at 4:17 PM, EDT, July 20,1969, and remained on lunar surface 21 hours, 36 minutes and 16 seconds. The landing was made from Apollo 11's orbiting command and service module, code named 'Columbia', whose pilot, Michael Collins, remained aboard. Armstrong was first to set foot on moon. Armstrong and Aldrin were outside spacecraft, walking on moon's surface, approximately 2¼ hours.

SPACE EXPLORATION DAY. July 20. Presidential proclamation 4449, issued July 19,1976. "The world watched in awe as an American took his historic one smallstep onto the Moon. A dream of thousands of years had been realized. In keeping with tradition, the American presence in that new land was symbolized by the planting of the Stars and Stripes, which proclaimed the benefits of human freedom for the entire universe. "This entry marks the anniversary of the above proclamation issued in 1976. At press time there is no assurance that it will be issued during 1977.

CONTROLLING HEALTH CARE COSTS

From New: lay, Long Island

Harry Truman was the first president to see the need for national health insurance, and all his successors have proposed the same thing in one form or another. But none has been able to get health insurance enacted because none has found a way to pay for it.

Since Truman's day, medical care costs have climbed five times as fast as the over-all cost of living, which hasn't exactly been standing still. With costs climbing out of sight, presidents have simply declared moot the debate over which form national health insurance should take, and abandoned their drive for it. The question now is whether President Carter is following that same sad precedent.

We don't think so . In fact, he may be the first chief executive to recognize that the nation never will have an effective health insurance program until something is done to bring soaring hospital costs under control.

Carter proposed a program to do just that, and naturally the American Medical Association and various hospital groups are up in arms about it. They argue that they couldn't possibly get by with a 9 per cent boost in revenues next year, as Carter suggests. That's still half again as big as the anticipated rise in the over-all cost of living, but far below the 15 per cent rate of increase that hospital administrators have become accustomed to in recent years.

What are the American people getting in return? The U.S. now spends more for health care than any other nation; yet nobodys seriously argues that it has anything approaching the best medical car. Virtually every industrialized country has had a national health insurance program for years now, but the richest nation in the world still can't afford one.

Carter insists that his commitment to national health insurance is just as strong as it was when he campaigned for president last year. But he argues that "unrestrained health costs . . . restrict our ability to plan necessary improvements in our health care program. . . With current inflation, the cost of any national health insurance program the administration and Congress will develop will double in just five years."

Carter may not be the first president to recognize that rising costs are pricing health insurance out of the nation's reach, but he certainly is the first to realize it this early in his Administration. The fact that he has proposed doing something about it is, in our view, not a cop-out but an encouraging sign that he really is serious aboutgetting national health insurance enacted.

The Good Old Days

Once upon a time, Congress took its role as custodian of the the public purse fairly seriously, as it was meant to do by the Founding Fathers, Harry S. Truman, in running for election in 1948, railed at the "do-nothing" 80th. Congress for sitting on his spending bills.

But as everyone knows by now, those days are long gone. And there is little evidence so fat that the budget control process which Congress legislated for itself three years ago is bringing them back.

When the House Budget Committee set its targets for federal outlays for fiscal 1978, it aimed for expenditures of $462.3 billion. That is $2.9 billion over the target of President Carter, which was, in turn, $19.4 billion above the target of President Ford. If you only count how much the House committee wants to overshoot President Carter, it isn't so bad by past standards, but it's up more than 10 per cent from the budget Congress aimed for in the current fiscal year.

On one point, however, the Budget Committee deserves some credit. It is more conservative than President Carter on its estimates of federal revenues and thus is counting on a fiscal 1978 deficit of $64.3 billion, about $6.6 billion higher than the President projected. If history is any guide, such conservatism is justified. That is about all the evidence we can offer that Congress is working its way towards a more serious view of federal budgeting, but it is better than nothing. —The Wall Street Journal

Audrain and other counties are finding that rural development of water lines sometimes problems that were not anticipated.

Water lines that become leaky and absorb ground water, sometimes of the polluted type, are one. Inadequate sewage disposals to take care of increased flow of waste materials is another.

Both can be controlled, but should be recognized and safeguards taken before trouble starts.

That is another of the reasons why a proposed sewage trunk line around Mark Twain Lake should be pushed and developed as rapidly as possible.

ON MERAMEC DAM

Regardless of what people may or may not think about the advisability of the controversial Meramec Dam, a report from the U.S. Council of Environmental Quality makes it look like a fine financial project.

It has estimated that benefits will be 30 percent annually of the cost of the project.

That sounds to most people like a pretty good investment for the taxpayers. It isn't often, if ever, they get 30 per cent return each year on a government venture, or on any others, even in private life.

It should help change some of the thinking at Washington on the part of those who are opposing the project, and especially so since it is a conclusion of the environmentalists.

POSTOFFICE MAY BE SHOWING THE WAY FOR PRESIDENT CARTER

After years of heavy deficits, the U.S. Postal Service has showed a profit for the last two quarters.

It has done this by cutting down operating costs -- mostly by not employing people for jobs that have become vacant because of deaths or retirement.

In many offices, not over half the former number are now employed, yet the service we get appears to be about as good as it was when more were on th payrolls.

Other government departments could probably achieve the savings President Carter wants by following the example of the postal service, since many of the high costs are for wages.

SABOTAGING THE WILL OF THE VOTERS

At Jefferson City last week, the State Senate voted to override the veto of the election disclosure repeal law by Gov. Bond.

The House refused to do so.

The people of Missouri voted overwhelmingly for that law.

They wanted it, and still want it - with some minor amendments that would exempt those holding offices where the pay is nothing or very small, such as school board directors, etc.

It is difficult to understand the reasoning of those Senators who are elected to represent the will of the people, and not their own personal interests, when they voted to repeal a law that was so overwhelmingly supported by the people of Missouri.

If we are to have government by the people, our state Senators must quit meddling with that law, or any law, that the people of Missouri have approved.

If they can't do that, they should be defeated or recalled.

The Failing Corrections System

From The Paragould Daily Press

Sooner or later most of the inmates of this nation's prisons will be set free. And they will either be prepared to re-enter society as useful citizens or embittered and ready to again prey on the public. Eighty per cent of all felonies in the U.S. are committed by repeaters, criminals who have gone uncorrected and fallen into new trouble. This is why rehabilitation, with education and job training as top priorities, whould be the crux of penology.

Correction programs at the federal, state and local levels are dismal, monumental failures. Most prisons and jails are, in fact, crime educational centers. Anyone not a criminal when he or she goes in will be one when he or she gets out. We can break the pattern, but only through concerted emphasis on education and training.

Punishment and custody are proven failures. First offenders and juveniles do not need to be co-mingled with convicted felons. We need to stop punishing and fuining forever the people who can be salvaged. Prison reform does not work.

Research shows that inmates who particiapted in probation, parole, work-release and other community-based programs such as halfway houses are not as likely to commit new crimes. It's up to an enlightened public pushing reluctant public officials to upgrade the corrections system.

For Lawyers Only

From Pensions & Investment

Speaking in Washington April 29 before the Council on Labor Law and Labor Relations, Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall said in part:

"When Congress passed the Employe Retirement Income Security Act, it was often described as the Lawyers and Accountants Relief Act of 9174. The law has a simple purpose—to guarantee the security of the pensions of American workers. But it is breath-taking to annonlawyer like myself how much legal language and how many regulations are needed to carry out that simple principle.

"I still am a little confused why ERISA has to be so complicated. But when I first became Secretary of Labor, I still thougth that I would be able to find out.

"I remember that I called in one of our lawyers and I've since learned that we have 300 of them and asked him to bring me the law and let me read it.

"He said, 'It wouldn't do you any good. You couldn't understand it?' He just said flatly, 'Well, you just can't.' So I said, 'Well, do you understand it?' He replied, 'Yes, but I'm a lawyer.'

"That stopped me for a moment. So I tried another tack. 'Well, can you write it so I can understand it? He agreed that he could write it so I could understand it. But, he said, 'We wouldn't be able to enforce it then.'

"There seems to be a general rule in government that things have to be so complicated that only lawyers understand them before you can enforce them."

TAX-FREE INCOME

According to U.S. News & World Report, it'll save you a lot of trouble in filing out your federal income tax return if you keep in mind th kinds of income that are exempt from tax.

Here is a check-list of the most common types of income that you do not have to report on your return:

Payments from accident, health and casualty-insurance policies. Life insurance proceeds received on the death of the insured.

Social Security benefits and basic railroad-retirement pensions.

Interest on state and municipal bonds.

Federal income-tax refunds. Interest on them is taxable, though.

Gifts and inheritances.

Reimbursement to foster parents for child care. Child support payments received from a former spouse. But alimony is taxable.

Scholarships and fellowships if granted for work toward a degree.

Reimbursement from your employer for business travel and meals.

A cash rebate on the purchase of and automobile.

Veterans Administration payments to veterans and their families, including diability compensation, pensions, education and training benefits, and dividents on VA insurance.

Unemployment, workers' and federal employes' compensation payments.

Subsistence, uniform and quarters allowances for armed forces members.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

BUREAUCRATIC DETENTE

By JACK ANDERSON and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON— The top brass of the Justice Department's Antitrust Division and the Interstate Commerce Commission got together in the backrooms the other day to discuss their mutual animosities. Everyone shook hands and, immediately afterward, the antittrust officials began pulling their punches to spare the ICC from embarrassment.

Here are the fascinating events that led to the detente between the two bureaucratic baronies:

The ICC's reluctant regulators had been fuming over some stinging criticism from the Justice Department's trustbusters. The Antitrust Division uncharitably had blasted the ICC for several anticonsumer decisions.

This stirred the ICC's new boss, A. Daniel O'Neal, to seek a peace conference with the Justide Department's acting antitrust chief John Shenefield. They sat down together behind closed doors, each attended by aides.

An O'Neal aide asked the antitrust officials, please, to stop issuing "chear-shot press releases" against the ICC. O'Neal put it more delicately, with apparent sincerity, he offered to incorporate more antitrust philosophy into ICC decisions.

By all accounts, the trustbusters were so overcome by O'Neal's cooperative attitude that they rushed out and reversed an earlier decision to challenge another ICC ruling.

This was a ruling to deny a small bus company, Latin Express Service, the right to provide limited service between Miami, Fla., and Union City, N.J. The company wanted to serve Spanish-speaking travelers who had difficulty on Greyhound and Trailways buses.

Latin Express, for example, would have provided bilingual drivers and food with a Spanish flavor. Yet ICC denied the little company permission to run only two or three round trips a week. The ICC ruling, incredibly, claimed this limited service might harm the busing giants, Greyhound and Trailways.

The Antitrust Division, which is supposed to encourage competition, objected to the reidculous ruling. One fuming antitrust official called it "so outrageous as to boggle the mind." It was "absurd," he said, "to think Latin Express could have diverted enough revenue from Greyhound or Trailways" to endanger them.

The Antitrust Division, therefore, decided to challenge the ICC decision, and another sharp statement was started through the bureaucratic machinery. But then the trustbusters, basking in the warm glow of their meeting with O'Neal, changed their minds about the Latin Express case.

A spokesman acknowledged, quite candidly, that the antitrust chiefs didn't want to attack the ICC so soon after the truce with O'Neal. So the spirit of detente prevailed, much to the outrage of some antitrust officials who thought the Latin Express decision was a travesty.

Unfortunately for O'Neal's sensibilities, however, the top trustbusters forgot to tell the press office about their change of heart. The unwitting press office, therefore, issued another blistering release.

"For the second time in two months," declared the embarrassing release, "the Department of Justice has challenged an ICC decision denying a small bus company authority to provide new intercity service."

The release quotes the antitrust deputy chief, Joe Sims, as proclaiming: "The Commission's decision points up the impossible burden placed on enw applicants for motor carrier operating authority by the ICC, even when the proposed service is highly specialized and the applicant is very small."

The only trouble with the press release was that the ICC ruling was not challenged as advertised, and the decision to drop the challenge was made by Joe Sims.

Footnote: A Justice Department spokesman confirmed most of our facts but said the Latin Express case did not involve significant new antitrust issues.

CIA MEMO -- The Central Intelligenc Agency had no comment last May when we quoted from House investigative files that the CIA was in contact with Lee Harvey Oswald in Dallas on the eve of the John F. Kennedy assassination.

The files described an interview with a Cuban CIA operative, named Antonio Veciana. He told House investigators that he had seen Oswald in the company of a CIA agent who went by the name of Morris Bishop.

The CIA, though maintaining official silence, reacted to our story in an internal memo. We have obtained a copy of the memo which, in fairness, we are now pleased to publish.

This memo, written nine days after the column appeared, is addressed to the CIA's "Deputy Director for Operataions." It states: "The Jack Anderson column of 6 May 1977 alluded to 'the CIA man, Morris Bishop,' in Dallas . . . The CIA did not have contact in Dallas with Lee Harvey Oswald . . .

"We have run exhaustive traces to identify Morris Bishop without success. The name Morris Bishop has never been used as a registered alias or pseudonym nor has anyone with that name ever been employed by the CIA."

WHO'S NEWS -- Henry Kissinger has told associates firmly that he won't write a kiss-and-tell book about his eight years as America's top diplomat. He wants to provide a meaningful account of the tumultuous events that he helped to guide.

-- Dr. Roger E. Brinner has taken a leave of absence from Data Resources, Inc., to become a senior staff economist for President Carter's Council of Economic Advisers. Data Resources does an annual $100,000 business with the council. A spokesman said Brinner would be hired anyway because of his "high professional competence" but that special guidelines have been drafted to avoid any conflict of interest.

VENICE A LA HEMINGWAY

VENICE, ITALY — Every person who comes to Venice is influenced in some way by one of the great writers who has written about the city. Hemingway has probably influenced me more than anyone, and without "Across the River and Into the Trees" I doubt if I'd even have enjoyed being there.

Take, for example, the night when I went to dinner at the Gritti Palace Hotel with my wife. It was a good dinner, an imposing dinner, a strong dinner, and the lobster he was good. When he arrived he was dark and green and unfriendly and cost a day's wages, but when they grilled him he was red and I wouldn't have traded five sleeping bags for him.

I looked across the table at my wife. She looked good. Almost as good as the lobster. "She looks as lovely as a gondola," I thought to myself, "or Stan Musial or Joe DiMaggio. She could drive a home run into the canal if I let her." I held her hand tightly. "I love you and I'm glad you're you," I told her. "Daughter, let's go for a ride in a gondola after dinner."

"So you can ogle the Italian women?"

"Please, daughter. You must try to understand my attitude. When you have killed so many you can afford to be a little wild."

"How many have you killed?"

"One hundred and eighty sures, not counting possibles."

"An you have no remorse?"

"None."

"Well, I do, and you'd better watch your step."

"Come, daughter, come, let's not think of women. We will find a gondola and you will be you and I will be me and the gondolier will be him."

"I'm warning you about this daughter business."

We found a gondola which was long and good and brave and true and it was our gondola for as long as we wanted it, for that's how it is in Venice. A man can either take a gondola or leave it alone. Only tourists and lovers take gondolas in Venice, I thought. Tourists and lovers and people who can afford them.

"Why can't we take a motorboat?" my wife asked. "A gondola is awfully slow."

"Because you're my wife and we're alone and its is Venice and I want to hold you close and I want you to hold me close and anyway it's cheaper than taking a motorboat."

"The canal smells," she said.

"So does war. So do the Russians. So do lobsters and garlic and perfume. Everything smells, daughter. We've just got to get used to it. Have you ever wrestled a bear?"

"I want to go back to the hotel," my wife said. "The gondola or the lobster has made me sick."

"All right, I'll take you home and read you Dante and tell you about war and the very brave boys and guys like Pete Quesada and Red Smith and the Montana National Guard. Now before you get sick, daughter, kiss me and love me straight and true."

It must have been the last "daughter," because before I knew it I was in the canal with all my clothes on. But it was good to be alive and wet and in love and in Venice. Hemingway couldn't have had a better time.

Todays News In Brief

Heat wave covers nation

NEW YORK (AP) — Temperatures in the 90 and above range that hit the Atlantic Coast to the Rockies and into the Southwest desert were expected to remain that high for most of the week. On Monday, the thermometer reached 107 in Las Vegas, Nev., and Gila Bend, Ariz. Near Phoenix it was 112. In New York it was an 11-year record 100. In Roanoke, Va., it reached 102, another record. Air conditioning was turned up all over the country. Power companies in Pennsylvania and Minnesota asked customers to cut back on using electrical appliances. There were spot outages or cutbacks in Massachusetts and New York City, where a 25-hour blackout caused so much trouble last week.

Bell foresees prosecutions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prosecutions may grow out of the Justice Department's investigation of alleged Korean attempts to buy influence in Congress. Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell said Monday that, "We expect there will be prosecutions." He indicated the department was moving more swiftly on the Korean case than on others because "it touches the public interest." Meanwhile, Speaker of the House Thomas P. O'Neill promised he would see to it that the congressional probe of the scandal moves ahead speedily. He said he wants quick appointment of a new chief investigator to replace Phiip A. Lacovara, who resigned last week.

Abortion stand strictly moral

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration sources are suggesting that President Carter's position against taxpayer-paid abortions for poor women is based strictly on moral considerations. The sources said Monday that the President received no factual information from his Domestic Policy Council before announcing his support of a controversial Supreme Court decision. The nation's highest court ruled earlier this month that states are not under any obligation to pay for poor women's abortions.

Pacific allies express concern

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's foreign policy is reported causing consternation among America's allies in the Pacific. Members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) apparently are having misgivings about U.S. policy, and have expressed their doubts both privately and publicly in recent weeks. Members of the association are: Indonesia, the Philippines, Thailand, Maylasia and Singapore. Their concern stems from the administration's human rights campaign, its interest in establishing normal relations with China and Vietnam and its plans to withdraw ground troops from South Korea.

Illegal use of office charged

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Former Speaker of the Missouri House Richard J. Rabbitt illegally used his offices to get money from state firms associations and in so doing deprived the citizens of the state of their right to honest government, acting U.S. Atty. Barry A. Short charged today.

Short outlined the government's charges in his opening statement in the bribery and extortion trial of Rabbitt in U.S. District Court.

A jury of eight men and four women was selected Monday after Judge John F. Nangle questioned about 50 prospective jurors.

Rabbitt and his attorneys declined to make an opening statement this morning, saying they would have a statement later.

Short said the government will prove that Rabbitt, an attorney, is guilty of three counts of extortion, 11 counts of mail fraud and one count of attempted extortion.

Begin pleads West Bank case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin, arriving at the White House today for talks with President Carter, said Israel "yearns for peace, prays for peace and will do everything humanly possible...for a real peace."

But Begin signaled Israel's continuing refusal to withdraw from the occupied West Bank of the Jordan by warning that "in certain circumstances...the life of every man, woman and child" in Israel could be "directly threatened and put in jeopardy."

These are the precise words Begin uses in arguing Israel's case for keeping the West Bank under Israeli control.

Israeli sources said the prime minister brought several maps for Carter, one showing tiny Israel surrounded by the vast Arab world and another showing how Arab guns would be in firing range of Israeli cities if Arabs occupied the West Bank.

Alaska pipeline flows again

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Pushed first by gravity and then by pumps, oil began moving through the trans+Alaska pipeline again, 10 days after an explosion destroyed Pump Station No. 8 and shut down the $7.7 billion line.

"Things are moving along in reasonable shape. It looks like we're on to stay," said Henry Mowell, Alyeska Pipeline Sevice Co. vice president for operations. "About 6 o'clock (11 p.m. EDT Monday) we opened all the valves."

Mowell said that "opening the valves on the downside of the Brooks Range" gave the oil a shove and then the pumps were turned on to keep it going. The highest point on the pipeline — 4,800-foot Attigun Pass — is in the Brooks Range.

Bunker crash cause unknown

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The cause of a weekend plane crash that killed four Kansas City area residents remains unknown, according to a federal investigator.

But Del C. Valle, an air safety investigator with the National Transportation Safety Board, said Monday that the accident in southeast Missouri was preceded by a power loss.

Killed in the mishap were the pilot, John B. Papineau, 54; his wife, Jane C. Papineau, 54, and Martha A. Brown, 38, all of Bonner Springs, Kan., and Gary O. Tucker, 44, Stilwell, Kan.

Their white Piper Tri+Pacer narrowly missed the city water tower in Bunker, about 90 miles southwest of St. Louis, before crashing southwest of town Saturday night. The wreckage was found the next day.

"I don't really know what caused the loss of power," said Valle. "We're concentrating our investigation around the engine, but we haven't found any failure in it so far."

Daily record

CITY COURT

NEW MADRID— Fines imposed Monday in City Court included:

Jimmy Lynn Thompson, New Madrid, permitting vicious dog to run loose $50; Timmy Farrenburg, New Madrid, careless and reckless driving $25; Gene Recker, New Madrid, careless and reckless driving while drinking, $25; and Porter Sanders, Howardville, careless and reckless driving, $25.

FIRES

CHARLESTON— The fire department answered two calls Monday.

At 1:15 p.m., firemen were called to the Sarah Sisk home, 208 Danforth St., where they were able to contain the blaze to an upstairs bedroom. However, other parts of the house received smoke and water damage. Cause of the fire has not been determined. Firemen were at the scene until 2:45 p.m.

The fire department was called at 11 p.m. to the Oliver Kirkpatrick property located four miles south of town on Route C.

Upon arrival it was found to be a false alarm, which resulted when a breeze caused smoke from burning trash at the back of the house to settle over the top of the house, making it appear that the dwelling was burning.

FIRES

EAST PRAIRIE— The fire department was called at 3:05 p.m. Monday to St. James Village to extinguish a fire in a mobile home owned by Pete Chaney. It appeared the fire started in the master bedroom, possibly from faulty electrical wiring.

Firemen were called back to the scene at 3:30 p.m., when the fire flared up agin.

No estimate of damage has been made.

Donna Gilliland accepted at Harding College

SEARCY, ARK. -- Donna S. Gilliland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Quincy Gilliland, Bell City, Route One has been accepted for admission for the fall semester at Harding College, according to acting director of admissions Durward McGaha.

Miss Gilliland, who was graduated from Bell City High School in May of 1975, has completed 64 hours, approximately half of a four-year load of college credit at Crowley's Ridge College in Paragould, Ark.

At Harding, Miss Gilliland, who will be a junior, will pursue a major in elementary education.

College officials expect the fall enrollment to exceed last year's record registration of 2,724. The four-year liberal arts institution is in its 53rd year.

Court reverses job judgment

SPRINGFIELD -- The Missouri Court of Appeals has held that a Kennett woman who lost her job at the Emerson Electric plant in Kennett because she was unable to report to work because of baby-sitting problems at home is not entitled to collect unemployment benefits.

The Appeals Court, Springfield District, yesterday reversed a court decision rendered by Circuit Judge William Ragland, who found in favor of the former Emerson Electric worker, Bobby Sue Lyell.

Judge Ragland's order in favor of Mrs. Lyell was appealed by both the Labor and Industrial Relations Commission and the Division of Employment Security to the Springfield District Appeals Court, whose unanimious decision reversing the order was handed down last week.

Mrs. Lyell had worked on the motor line at the Emerson Electric plant for about three years when she was released after failing to report for work on July 21, 1975, because she said she could not find a babysitter for her children.

Because of a company rule at Emerson, Mrs. Lyell was told it would be assumed she quit if she did not report to work on July 21.

When she failed to report, the records were made to indicate she had voluntarily quit.

In the decision, Justice Hogan wrote: "If an employe terminates or abandons his employment because of the compelling pressure of parental obligation, has he quit 'voluntarily without good cause attributable to his work or to his employer?'

"The trial court's judgment was based on the premised that a trier of fact was required by the evidence to find that the claimant failed to report because she was una le to find a babysitter; its conclusion was that Mrs. Lyell's obligation to care for her children constituted 'good cause' and because she left under the compulsion of that obligation, she had not terminated her employment 'voluntarily.' We agree with the premise but not with the conclusion."

Since the case has been under appeal, Mrs. Lyell have received unemployment benefits, however, with the reversal order, the money she has drawn will not be drawn from Emerson Electric.

A heated knife will cut through fresh bread more easily.

Vo-ag teacher shortage hits schools

By The Associated Press

Twenty-one high school vocational agriculture programs across Nebraska face suspension this fall because of a shortage of teachers.

Dr. Osmund Gilbertson, head of the University of Nebaska Department of Agricultural Education, said recently he is concerned that enough teachers will not be found to prevent some of the vo-ag programs from closing.

There were teacher vacancies in 45 of Nebraska's 138 high school vo-ag programs, Gilbertson said. Adding to the shortage are four new vo-ag programs approved for the coming school year.

Besides the normal attrition to agribusiness, he said, a larger number of vo-ag teachers have apparently decided to return to farming this year.

Nebraska University this year graduated 29 students certified to teach vo-ag, Gilbertson said, and of these 15 have accepted teaching posts. He said usually only about one-third of the graduates go into teaching.

Todays News In Brief

Heat wave covers nation

NEW YORK (AP) — Temperatures in the 90 and above range that hit the Atlantic Coast to the Rockies and into the Southwest desert were expected to remain that high for most of the week. On Monday, the thermometer reached 107 in Las Vegas, Nev., and Gila Bend, Ariz. Near Phoenix it was 112. In New York it was an 11-year record 100. In Roanoke, Va., it reached 102, another record. Air conditioning was turned up all over the country. Power companies in Pennsylvania and Minnesota asked customers to cut back on using electrical appliances. There were spot outages or cutbacks in Massachusetts and New York City, where a 25-hour blackout caused so much trouble last week.

Bell foresees prosecutions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prosecutions may grow out of the Justice Department's investigation of alleged Korean attempts to buy influence in Congress. Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell said Monday that, "We expect there will be prosecutions." He indicated the department was moving more swiftly on the Korean case than on others because "it touches the public interest." Meanwhile, Speaker of the House Thomas P. O'Neill promised he would see to it that the congressional probe of the scandal moves ahead speedily. He said he wants quick appointment of a new chief investigator to replace Phiip A. Lacovara, who resigned last week.

Abortion stand strictly moral

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration sources are suggesting that President Carter's position against taxpayer-paid abortions for poor women is based strictly on moral considerations. The sources said Monday that the President received no factual information from his Domestic Policy Council before announcing his support of a controversial Supreme Court decision. The nation's highest court ruled earlier this month that states are not under any obligation to pay for poor women's abortions.

Pacific allies express concern

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's foreign policy is reported causing consternation among America's allies in the Pacific. Members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) apparently are having misgivings about U.S. policy, and have expressed their doubts both privately and publicly in recent weeks. Members of the association are: Indonesia, the Philippines, Thailand, Maylasia and Singapore. Their concern stems from the administration's human rights campaign, its interest in establishing normal relations with China and Vietnam and its plans to withdraw ground troops from South Korea.

Illegal use of office charged

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Former Speaker of the Missouri House Richard J. Rabbitt illegally used his offices to get money from state firms associations and in so doing deprived the citizens of the state of their right to honest government, acting U.S. Atty. Barry A. Short charged today.

Short outlined the government's charges in his opening statement in the bribery and extortion trial of Rabbitt in U.S. District Court.

A jury of eight men and four women was selected Monday after Judge John F. Nangle questioned about 50 prospective jurors.

Rabbitt and his attorneys declined to make an opening statement this morning, saying they would have a statement later.

Short said the government will prove that Rabbitt, an attorney, is guilty of three counts of extortion, 11 counts of mail fraud and one count of attempted extortion.

Begin pleads West Bank case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin, arriving at the White House today for talks with President Carter, said Israel "yearns for peace, prays for peace and will do everything humanly possible...for a real peace."

But Begin signaled Israel's continuing refusal to withdraw from the occupied West Bank of the Jordan by warning that "in certain circumstances...the life of every man, woman and child" in Israel could be "directly threatened and put in jeopardy."

These are the precise words Begin uses in arguing Israel's case for keeping the West Bank under Israeli control.

Israeli sources said the prime minister brought several maps for Carter, one showing tiny Israel surrounded by the vast Arab world and another showing how Arab guns would be in firing range of Israeli cities if Arabs occupied the West Bank.

Alaska pipeline flows again

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Pushed first by gravity and then by pumps, oil began moving through the trans+Alaska pipeline again, 10 days after an explosion destroyed Pump Station No. 8 and shut down the $7.7 billion line.

"Things are moving along in reasonable shape. It looks like we're on to stay," said Henry Mowell, Alyeska Pipeline Sevice Co. vice president for operations. "About 6 o'clock (11 p.m. EDT Monday) we opened all the valves."

Mowell said that "opening the valves on the downside of the Brooks Range" gave the oil a shove and then the pumps were turned on to keep it going. The highest point on the pipeline — 4,800-foot Attigun Pass — is in the Brooks Range.

Bunker crash cause unknown

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The cause of a weekend plane crash that killed four Kansas City area residents remains unknown, according to a federal investigator.

But Del C. Valle, an air safety investigator with the National Transportation Safety Board, said Monday that the accident in southeast Missouri was preceded by a power loss.

Killed in the mishap were the pilot, John B. Papineau, 54; his wife, Jane C. Papineau, 54, and Martha A. Brown, 38, all of Bonner Springs, Kan., and Gary O. Tucker, 44, Stilwell, Kan.

Their white Piper Tri+Pacer narrowly missed the city water tower in Bunker, about 90 miles southwest of St. Louis, before crashing southwest of town Saturday night. The wreckage was found the next day.

"I don't really know what caused the loss of power," said Valle. "We're concentrating our investigation around the engine, but we haven't found any failure in it so far."

CITY COURT

NEW MADRID— Fines imposed Monday in City Court included:

Jimmy Lynn Thompson, New Madrid, permitting vicious dog to run loose $50; Timmy Farrenburg, New Madrid, careless and reckless driving $25; Gene Recker, New Madrid, careless and reckless driving while drinking, $25; and Porter Sanders, Howardville, careless and reckless driving, $25.

FIRES

CHARLESTON— The fire department answered two calls Monday.

At 1:15 p.m., firemen were called to the Sarah Sisk home, 208 Danforth St., where they were able to contain the blaze to an upstairs bedroom. However, other parts of the house received smoke and water damage. Cause of the fire has not been determined. Firemen were at the scene until 2:45 p.m.

The fire department was called at 11 p.m. to the Oliver Kirkpatrick property located four miles south of town on Route C.

Upon arrival it was found to be a false alarm, which resulted when a breeze caused smoke from burning trash at the back of the house to settle over the top of the house, making it appear that the dwelling was burning.

FIRES

EAST PRAIRIE— The fire department was called at 3:05 p.m. Monday to St. James Village to extinguish a fire in a mobile home owned by Pete Chaney. It appeared the fire started in the master bedroom, possibly from faulty electrical wiring.

Firemen were called back to the scene at 3:30 p.m., when the fire flared up agin.

No estimate of damage has been made.

Court reverses job judgment

SPRINGFIELD -- The Missouri Court of Appeals has held that a Kennett woman who lost her job at the Emerson Electric plant in Kennett because she was unable to report to work because of babysitting problems at home is not entitled to collect unemployment benefits.

The Appeals Court, Springfield District, yesterday reversed a court decision rendered by Circuit Judge William Ragland, who found in favor of the former Emerson Electric worker, Bobby Sue Lyell.

Judge Ragland's order in favor of Mrs. Lyell was appealed by both the Labor and Industrial Relations Commission and the Division of Employment Security to the Springfield District Appeals Court, whose unanimious decision reversing the order was handed down last week.

Mrs. Lyell had worked on the motor line at the Emerson Electric plant for about three years when she was released after failing to report for work on July 21, 1975, because she said she could not find a babysitter for her children.

Because of a company rule at Emerson, Mrs. Lyell was told it would be assumed she quit if she did not report to work on July 21.

When she failed to report, the records were made to indicate she had voluntarily quit.

In the decision, Justice Hogan wrote: "If an employe terminates or abandons his employment because of the compelling pressure of parental obligation, has he quit 'voluntarily without good cause attributable to his work or to his employer?'

"The trial court's judgment was based on the premised that a trier of fact was required by the evidence to find that the claimant failed to report because she was una le to find a babysitter; its conclusion was that Mrs. Lyell's obligation to care for her children constituted 'good cause' and because she left under the compulsion of that obligation, she had not terminated her employment 'voluntarily.' We agree with the premise but not with the conclusion."

Since the case has been under appeal, Mrs. Lyell have received unemployment benefits, however, with the reversal order, the money she has drawn will not be drawn from Emerson Electric.

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

True, all hearing problems are not alike . . . and some cannot be helped by a hearing aid. But audiologists report that many can. So, send for this non-operating model now. Wear it in the privacy of your own home to see how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 9729, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria St., Chicago, Ill. 60646.

Vo-ag teacher shortage hits schools

By The Associated Press

Twenty-one high school vocational agriculture programs across Nebraska face suspension this fall because of a shortage of teachers.

Dr. Osmund Gilbertson, head of the University of Nebaska Department of Agricultural Education, said recently he is concerned that enough teachers will not be found to prevent some of the vo-ag programs from closing.

There were teacher vacancies in 45 of Nebraska's 138 high school vo-ag programs, Gilbertson said. Adding to the shortage are four new vo-ag programs approved for the coming school year.

Besides the normal attrition to agribusiness, he said, a larger number of vo-ag teachers have apparently decided to return to farming this year.

Nebraska University this year graduated 29 students certified to teach vo-ag, Gilbertson said, and of these 15 have accepted teaching posts. He said usually only about one-third of the graduates go into teaching.

Wedding to come

Link-Alberson

Brenda Link and Michael Alberson

BLOOMFIELD -- Mr. and Mrs. Vader L. Link announce the engagement of their daughter, Brenda Jean to Michael L. Alberson. Alberson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Alberson of Bell City.

Miss Link is a 1976 graduate of Bloomfield High School and is presently attending Cape Business College at Cape Girardeau where she will graduate in September.

Alberson is a 1972 graduate of Scott County High School and is a farmer.

The couple plans a Sept. 3 wedding at the Link residence.

Getting married?

The Daily Standard, 205 S. New Madrid St., now has new wedding forms available at the front office or at the women's desk. Business hours are from 7 a.m., to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Forms will be mailed if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is provided.

The deadline for weddings is three weeks after date of wedding. Pictures will be returned if a self-addressed, stamped envelope large enough to hold a picture is supplied. Color pictures are discouraged. There is no charge for running a wedding. We are happy to publish it.

Problems with your sewing machine, program may help

Jewel Grady
Area Clothing & Text. Spec.

BLOOMFIELD -- Do you know if you are making the fullest use of your sewing machine? Have you been trying to decide what new make and model to buy or what to choose to replace the old model?

Perhaps you can get answers to these questions and many others at the Thursday, July 28, sewing machine educational program.

The meeting will be held at the Sikeston Junior High School beginning at 9:30 a.m. and ending at 3:00 p.m. It is being sponsored by the University of Missouri Extension Division.

Representatives of four major sewing machine companies: Singer, Bernina, Viking, and Necchi-Elna, will be presenting the program.

The meeting is open to any interested person. There is no charge for the event. All persons attending will have an opportunity to see and hear demonstrations presented by all the different sewing machine companies. They will be showing the outstanding features of their machine as well as discussing care, maintenance and service a consumer can expect from their company.

Selecting and skillfully using a sewing machine can enhance the creativeness of any home seamstress.

Maternity clinic opens to help identify risk problems which may lead to birth defects

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- A maternity clinic aimed at identifying women who risk developing conditions that may lead to premature birth or mental retardation in their infants began Friday at Southeast Missouri Hospital here.

The Southeast Missouri Maternity Clinic, sponsored by the Cape County Medical Society in cooperation with the hospital and the Missouri Division of Health, will operate from a portion of Southeast's emergency room wing equipped with examination facilities for gynecological procedures. The clinic will be held on Fridays, with four members of the local medical society serving as physicians on an alternating basis.

Concept of the clinic program, the first of its kind undertaken here, is to identify women with conditions that would make them high risk maternity patients. These would include women with diabetes or high blood pressure and extremely young or middle-aged woman bearing children for the first time.

Eligibility for the clinic will be determined by income, and whether care for medically indigent women is being covered through another source. Connie Collins, maternity nurse with the clinic, said that for the present, participation in the clinic will be restricted to Cape County residents.

Three women are scheduled to be seen at the first clinic, she said, and three for a clinic July 22.

Miss Collins, a May graduate of SEMO State University with a B.S. degree in nursing, was previously employed by St. Francis Medical Center. Pregnant women who reside in Cape County and who are interested in determining their eligibility for clinic services may contact Miss Collins at 334-2188.

Statistics compiled through the Division of Health indicate a higher infant death rate for southeast Missouri than for the state as a whole. From 1972 through 1975, the years of most recent compilations, there were 19.1 infant deaths per 1,000 births in the area of the state that includes much of the Bootheel. Statewide, the infant death rate was 16.9 per 1,000 births.

With all the vegetables that are being grown in gardens and ready to eat here are some tips on how to cook energy vegetables that grow.

If grown beneath the ground, root vegetables, was in cold water and start cooking them in cold water and cover the pot with lid. If the vegetables grows above the ground, green vegetables, it grows in the hot sun uncovered. Therefore, start in boiling water and use no lid.

Add a teaspoon of sugar to each quart of water when boiling corn-on-the -cob. This improves the flavor.

Sprinkle salt into the water in which you are washing fresh vegetables from the garden or store will bring any worms or insects to the surface and make the task easier.

Erma's husband is an amateur cameral freak

BY ERMA BOMBECK

As a woman who is married to an amateur camera freak, I respectfully suggest that some kind of legislation be passed requiring a permit to carry a loaded camera.

I don't mean to overreact, but I live in fear that someday my husband will point that thing at me, forget he has taken off the lens cap, and click click! I'll end up another statistic at Photomat.

I have been photographed walking out of a public bath house in a Michigan campground wearing a nightgown, curlers, and rain slicker . . . fishing around in my mouth with my fingers trying to remove a fishbone . . . and there are 30 prints floating around somewhere of me on my side in a bathing suit that I would give up my next unborn child to get the negatives.

The other day he was flipping the camera around carelessly when I said irritable, "Is that thing loaded?"

"Look," he said, "how many accidents have I had with this camera?"

"There was the time you snapped Fred at the office Christmas party trying to Xerox Miss Frampton. He threatened to rearrange your nose. Then, there was the time exposure when you nearly broke your leg trying to get back into the picture . . . and the birthday party where . . ."

"All right, so join the camera lobby and try to get them off the market."

"All I'm saying is cameras shouldn't be made available to the man on the street— only professionals who know how to use them. The way it stands now, any child can walk right into a camera store and buy a Sunday Afternoon Special right off the counter -- no questions asked. The next thing you know some innocent person is staring into the eye of an Instamatic."

"C'mon. You're making a big deal over nothing. I don't use the camera all that much. I just feel kinda important when I have a camera riding back there in the window of my pickup truck. Besides, it's sorta fun watching people's reactions when you point it at them." He grabbed the camera and trained it on my hips, which look like I'm carrying two U.S. mail pouches for the Pony Express. I heard the button click.

"Fooled you. The camera isn't loaded."

One of these days, he'll push me too far. There isn't a woman jury in this country that would find me guilty.

Dear Ann Landers

Homosexual says some are nutty

Dear Ann Landers: What on earth is "Anxious Floyd" trying to do anyway? It's hard enough to be gay and get people to accept us, then this idiot prances around like a damned fool in a feathered boa and silver wedgies and writtes to Ann Landers about it.

No wonder the woman split her sides laughing. There's no need for a gay to meet his lover's wife for the first time decked out like the star of a burlesque show. What wife wants to lose her husband to a flaming queen?

I just wish you'd get the idea across to your readers that there are nutty homosexuals just as there are nutty heterosexuals. Bizarre exhibitionists make it very rough on those of us who don't go in for that sort of thing. I, for one, wouldn't be caught dead in such a rig. Thanks for any help you might give us. -- One But Not Daffy

Dear One: I received several letters from other homosexuals who were also outraged. Obviously a great many straight people have a tendency to think of all homosexuals as limp-wristed, swishy nances who love to dress up in women's clothes. Nothing could be further from the truth.

Dear Ann Landers: I don't know if I'm being ungenerous or bein taken advantage of. I don't mind attending showers for friends but I resent being invited to a shower for someone I hardly know.

Last year three girls I went to school with (but hadn't seen for over a year) invited me to showers. I accepted, bought gifts and haven't heard from them since. Since January, five more have announced they are pregnant. I am close friends with two, but three are merely "hello" acquaintances.

Some people are flattered to be invited to anything, whether they feel close or not. I feel imposed upon. Should I realize this is a social tradition and accept it -- or do I have the right to decline the invitations I don't feel comfortable about?--U.P.

Dear U.P.: Anyone has the "right" to decline any invitation, for whatever reason. If you feel as if you're being used it's as good a reason as there is.

Dear Ann Landers: A word to the Northerner who signed herself "Red White and Blue."

I am a Southerner who never traveled more than 200 miles from home until I was 19. I considered my way of speaking "normal" until I went East. People kept saying, "You sure do talk funny." One woman told me I sounded like I had a mouth full of mushy. Another suggested that I take speech lessons. I felt hurt until another Southerner sat me down one day and said, "Just listen to THEM. At least we enjoy the birds -- not 'boids.' We also go to the toilet -- not the 'terlet.' If anyone needs speech lessons it's these oddballs with the Eastern accents."

I felt a lot better after that little sermon, Ann. I hope you'll print my letter so all transplanted Southerners will see it and feel better, too. -- A Kin To Robert E. Lee

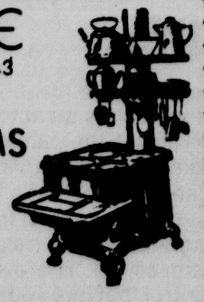

Dear Kin: "Red White and Blue" very nearly started another Civil War. I'm pleased to publish one of the many rebuttals. Thanks for writing.

How young is too young for a child to learn about sex? That's just one thing you'll find in Ann Landers's new booklet, "How, What and When to Tell Your Child About Sex." "Life O' Tread" Limited Warranty

The CO-OP "Life O' Tread" Limited Warranty is unsurpassed by any warranty in the industry. It is one more reason your local CO-OP offers you the "Best Deal in the Country."

Without limit on time, mileage or hours of service. All CO-OP passenger, truck and farm tires are warranted against failure due to Defects in Workmanship and Materials; all CO-OP passenger, truck and farm tires, except Agri-Power rear tractor tires, are warranted against all normal Road and Field Hazards with exception of repairable punctures. (Agri-Power tires are warranted against road and field hazards only during the first 25% of tread life).

Tire failure from the following reasons is not covered: Broken beads, nail punctures, fire, wreck and mechanical defects, abuse, tires run underinflated until cords are loosened or broken. Tires marked "Second" or "Blem" or with defaced serial numbers will not be adjusted.

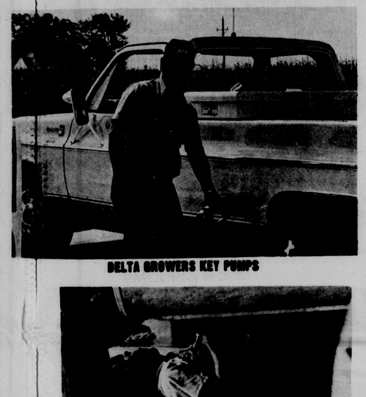

A pro-rata allowance on a new CO-OP tire will be made on all CO-OP tires qualifying for adjustment under this warranty, based on original tread depth remaining and on Farmland Industries' current adjustment price base.

VA hospital asks for public's help

POPLAR BLUFF- Construction has begun on the over 4.5 million dollar central air-conditioning project at Poplar Bluff's Veterans Administration Hospital. This renovation will provide better climate control and more comfort for the 225 bed facility.

During the 18 month period required for installation of the cooling system, some inconveniences may be expected by the 55,000 veterans in the hospital service area.

"Our major problem is a lack of space," emphasized Charles R. Armon, Hospital Director. "large areas of the hospital must be entirely closed to the public while work is in progress." Armon solicited the help of those using or visiting the medical center.

Where possible, patients and their families are urged to limit the number of persons accompanying the patient to the hospital. Other temporary guidelines include keeping the number of visitors to patinets rooms at a minimum and restricting the presence of children in the hospital below fourteen years of age,

"There simply is not enough space to accomodate the normal number of people who visit the hospital. Voluntary assistance from the public will be a great help in continuing the best of medical care to our veterans during this construction period," Armon said.

Christie Heeb on dean's list

FULTON- Christie Heeb, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Max Heeb of Sikeston has been named to the Achievement List at William Woods College for the 1977 winter term. Students must have a 3.00-3.49 grade point average to qualify for the list.

The curriculum at William Woods College includes programs leading to the Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science degrees in thirty major disciplines and the Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in Art and Theatre Arts.

For the seventeenth consecutive year the college opened with capacity enrollment. Forty-three states and nine foreign countries are represented within the student body.

Students attending William Woods College are afforded an educational opportunity through a reciprocal academic and social program with Westminster College for Men, also located in Fulton.

Criminology students pull 'successful' heist

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb. (AP) — A group of criminal justice students at Nebraska Western College closed their books long enough last week to commit a crime—theoretically, that is.

Equipped with pencil flashlights and plastic gloves, eight students in Introduction to Criminology got away with $10,000 to $30,000 in televisions, microscopes, typewriters and other college property.

The equipment never left the premises, says instructor Dan Campagna, but was tagged after students entered offices with a master key obtained from an unidentified person who is not associated with the college.

The students then pretended to load the items in weighted cardboard boxes which they carried to three vehicles parked at rear exits between 6:30 and 9 p.m.

"The kids pulled off the crime under the noses of instructors, students, janitors, visitors, everyone here," Campagna said. "They did it systematically and very cleverly. They did an outstanding job in organizing a massive crime.

"The signficance is that if we can design such a crime in three to four weeks," he said, "what could a professional do with six months?"

NWC President John Harms, who doesn't intend to wait that long to find out, said the class had "made a good point."

"We're definitely looking at a security force," Harms said.

The students apparently tagged almost anything of value that wasn't bolted down, including lab equipment, encyclopedias and a skeleton.

Another purpose of the exercise which was carried off without him, Campagna said, "was to give the average studetn a bit of insight into criminal behavior."

"We simulated the theft down to the finest details while the building was full of people," he said. Normally, a heist like this is pulled off late at night, he said, "but we couldn't stay up till four in the morning."

The students left notes with the tagged articles saying that no part of the building was safe and that whatever amateurs could steal, professionals could top.

"Sorry for the inconvenience," the note said, "but had this been a real theft you would have more to worry about than the inconvenience."

Campagna views the project as a "free-of-charge security analysis." Such a service is costly when done by a professional security agency, he said.

The eight students received A's for the project.

VA hospital asks for public's help

POPLAR BLUFF- Construction has begun on the over 4.5 million dollar central air-conditioning project at Poplar Bluff's Veterans Administration Hospital. This renovation will provide better climate control and more comfort for the 225 bed facility.

During the 18 month period required for installation of the cooling system, some inconveniences may be expected by the 55,000 veterans in the hospital service area.

"Our major problem is a lack of space," emphasized Charles R. Armon, Hospital Director, "large areas of the hospital must be entirely closed to the public while work is in progress." Armon solicited the help of those using or visiting the medical center.

Where possible, patients and their families are urged to limit the number of persons accompanying the patient to the hospital. Other temporary guidelines include keeping the number of visitors to patinets rooms at a minimum and restricting the presence of children in the hospital below fourteen years of age,

"There simply is not enough space to accomodate the normal number of people who visit the hospital. Voluntary assistance from the public will be a great help in continuing the best of medical care to our veterans during this construction period," Armon said.

Move to State Tournament at Lebanon

Sikeston 13-year-olds outlast Dexter

By CHARLIE FRANCIS
Daily Standard Sports Editor

DEXTER – Sikeston's 13-year-old Babe Ruth All-Stars are going to the State Tournament beginning Saturday at Lebanon, and although the team averaged nearly ten runs per game during the week-long tournament at Dexter, they can thank their defensive play for getting them there.

Sikeston played errorless ball to help them stay in the game against Dexter Monday night, long enough for their bats to come through in the clutch. Nick Garner's double in the bottom of the sixth cleared the bases, breaking a 3-3 tie and helping propel his team to a 7-3 win that gave them the District championship.

"That's what we've been preaching to them -- the Big D," said Sikeston coach Pat Collins. Not only did the All-Stars play errorless baseball, but some big plays in the field kept Dexter off the board.

Catcher Bert Perry who went2-for-3 at the plate, also shined behind it. Perry had no fewer than three clutch plays, the first of which came when he gunned out Matt Greer trying to steal in the first inning. Greer crashed into the screen and somehow held onto Brian Becker's pop foul in the third, then got Becker again in the sixth, recovering quickly after the ball got by him and throwing a strike to the pitcher, who tagged out Becker trying to sneak in from third.

Al Merrell also saved a run for Sikeston. The centerfielder came up with Steve Chamberlain's single to center in the fourth and threw a one-hop strike to the plate to get Kelly Young, who tried to score from second.

The recipient of the near-perfect defense was Garner, who survived a rocky second-inning to pitch a sparkling five-hitter. Four of the hits came in the second, when Dexter teed off on the Sikeston southpaw for four straight safeties and three runs. Alan Hedrick's single scored Becker with the first run, and Dexter hurler James Sneed doubled home Hedrick. Sneed took third on Kelly Young's hit and scored on an infield out by Ron Heitman.

Garner allowed a single to Steve Chamberlain in the fourth with two out, then hurled hitless baseball over the final three innings.

Although Dexter had a struck for three in the second, it was Sikeston which got on the board first. Perry reached on a fielder's choice, stole second and took third on an infield hit by Garner. He scored when his hard slide knocked the ball out of the glove of Sneed after the pitcher had covered home on a passed ball.

After Dexter's big second, Sikeston got back to within striking range in the third. A walk to Hurley was followed by a double by Perry and a Texas League single by Green, which made the score 3-2. The All-Stars had an excellent chance to tie the game or take the lead with runners at second and third and none out. But Garner's fly to left was too shallow to score the run, and Dexter got an unusual 5-3-2 double play when Perry tried to score from third on Merrell's grounder.

Sikeston had another chance to tie the game in the fourth, when a double by Philip Carnell and walks to Tim Lambert and Hurley loaded the bases with two out. But Sneed induced Perry to ground to third to end the threat.

Sikeston's frustration ended in the fifth, with the help of three Dexter errors in the inning. Green led off with a single and took second when the ball eluded leftfielder Steve Chamberlain for an error. Garner then beat out a grounder to short, and Green came around to score when Jay Nugent's late throw to first was off the mark. Sikeston tried to squeeze home the winning run, but Merrell couldn't get his bat on the outside pitch and Garner was trapped off third.

The sixth was the big inning for Sikeston. A fielder's choice, a single and a walk loaded the bases for Garner, who won his own game by blasting a drive to right center, just out of the reach of rightfielder Alan Hedrick. The drive scored three runs, and Garner himself scored the fourth when Merrell's grounder went through shortstop Nugent's legs.

Sikeston will begin State Tournament play at 4:30 Saturday evening at Lebanon.

Sutton, Palmer to start for All-Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Sutton, who has dreamed of pitching in Yankee Stadium, and Jim Palmer, who has done well in the same ballpark, drew the starting assignments for tonight's 48th All-Star Game.

Sutton, the ace right-hander of the Los Angles Dodgers, and Palmer, Baltimore's right-handed stopper, have fared well in previous All-Star appearances. Sutton, making his first start, has blanked the American League in five previous innings, while Palmer has hurled eight scoreless innings against the National League.

Palmer started in 1970 and 1972 without picking up a decision, but was a middle-inning reliever in 1971, the last time the AL beat the NL. Besides the five straight victories, the NL has won 13 of the last 14 All-Star confrontations.

"The starting assignment is a treat in one respect. Not many guys get to do this," said Palmer, whose career record is 20-11 against the Yankees. "The All-Star Games really haven't been so one-sided recently. Only the results have been."

The AL's chances would seem better if injuries had not ransacked its pitching staff. Out with assorted ailments are Mark Fidrych of Detroit, Frank Tanana of California and Vida Blue of Oakland. California's Nolan Ryan refused to play, leaving the AL with only three starting pitchers and four relievers.

"Despite all our injuries, I still think we have an outstanding squad and we're going to break that (losing) streak," AL President Lee MacPhail said Monday.

Chub Feeney, the NL president, smugly countered MacPhail's pep talk by saying, "We expect to do what we usually do."

Sutton relishes the opportunity to start for the NL, a dream come true for the pitcher who wanted to become a Yankee during the team's penny-pinching days.

"Only the fact that the Yankees weren't willing to pay me more than $2,000, and I would have played in Yankee Stadium before," Sutton said. "I spent all my childhood dreaming of one day pitching in Yankee Stadium.

"I grew up on a farm in Pensacola, (Fla.), and I occupied my days pitching mental shutouts with Mickey Mantle making the last out catching the ball near the monuments."

Sutton won't be on the mound to watch the final out, giving way to another pitcher, probably after three innings if NL Manager Sparky Anderson's game plan is not torpedoed by the AL bats.

It was somewhat of a surprise that Anderson, the Cincinnati skipper, was starting Sutton, with whom he has had a running feud, accusing the Dodgers' ace of illegal pitching practices. Anderson maintains that Sutton attempts to make a round ball square, or some other shape, through some devious method.

"I knew I was a cinch to start when I got a note from Sparky last week asking me what grain of sandpaper I wanted him to order," joked Sutton.

Before Anderson's announcement, Cincinnati's Tom Seaver was expected to get the starting nod, giving the New York fans an opportunity to welcome him back following last month's trade from the Mets to the Reds.

Seaver will pitch some time, said Anderson, whose pitching staff is weighted down by injuries to John Candelaria of Pittsburgh, Steve Carlton of Philadelphia and Joaquin Andujar of Houston.

That leaves the NL with Gary Lavelle of San Francisco, Rich Gossage of Pittsburgh, Rick Reuschel of Chicago, Seaver and Sutton.

The AL staff includes Sparky Lyle of New York, Bill Campbell of Boston, Jim Kern of Cleveland and Dave LaRoche of California—all relievers. The starters on the staff are Palmer, Jim Slaton of Milwaukee and Dennis Eckersley of Cleveland. AL Manager Billy Martin of the Yankees said he was leaning toward Eckersley to relieve Palmer.

The NL starting lineup will have Cincinnati second baseman Joe Morgan leading off, followed by first baseman Steve Garvey of Los Angeles and Dave Parker of Pittsburgh, who will be playing right field. George Foster of Cincinnati will bat cleanup and play centerfield. Then the NL will send up left fielder Greg Luzinski of Philadelphia, third baseman Ron Cey of Los Angeles, catcher Johnny Bench of Cincinnati and shortstop Dave Concepcion of Cincinnati.

A BIG check

By MIKE MARSH

It seems that the big game often brings out the best in baseball players. Last night proved to be no exception as Rotary downed Collins Construction 2-0 in the championship game of the Musial League. The boys and girls played unlike most would think when you consider their age. (Nine and ten yearolds.)

Big Stan Templeton of Rotary displayed his amazing control as he struck out fourteen while walking home. Stan gave up no base-on-balls this year, explaining much of his success. Brian Self tossed three innings of hardball for Collins and struck out five with no free passes. Brian gave up only one hit and no runs.

The game was scoreless until the fourth when Shirlene Grissom reached base on an error by the secondbaseman. She advanced on a stolen base, a passed ball and scored on a wild pitch. Rotary then scored an insurance run in the fifth as Brent King walked Steve McMillan who eventually came home on a passed ball.

Collins threatened in the fourth as Self singled but was gunned out stealing. Brent King followed with a double and was likewise gunned by catcher Nick Watkins.

Big Stan was the winner for Rotary and Brent King got the tough loss for Collins.

The only other Little League action last night was a playoff for second place in the National League between Legion and Kiwanis. The game was a slugfest that Legion finally won 13-12.

Legion looked as if they were coasting to the win as they led 11-4 going into the fifth. Kiwanis then came to life and scored eight runs to put them ahead 12-11. The bottom of the fifth saw catcher Vince Howard ram a two-out triple into center to drive in the tying run. Vince then went into pitch and held Kiwanis in the final frame. Orlando Butler scored the winner as he stole third and went home on an errant throw to third. Howard got the win for Legion as Dennis Bean incurred the late inning loss.

Little League teams open league tournament play tonight, with an eight-team bracket being set up for each league. The winners will be crowned Friday night.

Move to State Tournament at Lebanon

Sikeston 13-year-olds outlast Dexter

By CHARLIE FRANCIS
Daily Standard Sports Editor

DEXTER – Sikeston's 13-year-old Babe Ruth All-Stars are going to the State Tournament beginning Saturday at Lebanon, and although the team averaged nearly ten runs per game during the week-long tournament at Dexter, they can thank their defensive play for getting them there.

Sikeston played errorless ball to help them stay in the game against Dexter Monday night, long enough for their bats to come through in the clutch. Nick Garner's double in the bottom of the sixth cleared the bases, breaking a 3-3 tie and helping propel his team to a 7-3 win that gave them the District championship.

"That's what we've been preaching to them -- the Big D," said Sikeston coach Pat Collins. Not only did the All-Stars play errorless baseball, but some big plays in the field kept Dexter off the board.

Catcher Bert Perry who went2-for-3 at the plate, also shined behind it. Perry had no fewer than three clutch plays, the first of which came when he gunned out Matt Greer trying to steal in the first inning. Greer crashed into the screen and somehow held onto Brian Becker's pop foul in the third, then got Becker again in the sixth, recovering quickly after the ball got by him and throwing a strike to the pitcher, who tagged out Becker trying to sneak in from third.

Al Merrell also saved a run for Sikeston. The centerfielder came up with Steve Chamberlain's single to center in the fourth and threw a one-hop strike to the plate to get Kelly Young, who tried to score from second.

The recipient of the near-perfect defense was Garner, who survived a rocky second-inning to pitch a sparkling five-hitter. Four of the hits came in the second, when Dexter teed off on the Sikeston southpaw for four straight safeties and three runs. Alan Hedrick's single scored Becker with the first run, and Dexter hurler James Sneed doubled home Hedrick. Sneed took third on Kelly Young's hit and scored on an infield out by Ron Heitman.

Garner allowed a single to Steve Chamberlain in the fourth with two out, then hurled hitless baseball over the final three innings.

Although Dexter had a struck for three in the second, it was Sikeston which got on the board first. Perry reached on a fielder's choice, stole second and took third on an infield hit by Garner. He scored when his hard slide knocked the ball out of the glove of Sneed after the pitcher had covered home on a passed ball.

After Dexter's big second, Sikeston got back to within striking range in the third. A walk to Hurley was followed by a double by Perry and a Texas League single by Green, which made the score 3-2. The All-Stars had an excellent chance to tie the game or take the lead with runners at second and third and none out. But Garner's fly to left was too shallow to score the run, and Dexter got an unusual 5-3-2 double play when Perry tried to score from third on Merrell's grounder.

Sikeston had another chance to tie the game in the fourth, when a double by Philip Carnell and walks to Tim Lambert and Hurley loaded the bases with two out. But Sneed induced Perry to ground to third to end the threat.

Sikeston's frustration ended in the fifth, with the help of three Dexter errors in the inning. Green led off with a single and took second when the ball eluded leftfielder Steve Chamberlain for an error. Garner then beat out a grounder to short, and Green came around to score when Jay Nugent's late throw to first was off the mark. Sikeston tried to squeeze home the winning run, but Merrell couldn't get his bat on the outside pitch and Garner was trapped off third.

The sixth was the big inning for Sikeston. A fielder's choice, a single and a walk loaded the bases for Garner, who won his own game by blasting a drive to right center, just out of the reach of rightfielder Alan Hedrick. The drive scored three runs, and Garner himself scored the fourth when Merrell's grounder went through shortstop Nugent's legs.

Sikeston will begin State Tournament play at 4:30 Saturday evening at Lebanon.

Sutton, Palmer to start for All-Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Sutton, who has dreamed of pitching in Yankee Stadium, and Jim Palmer, who has done well in the same ballpark, drew the starting assignments for tonight's 48th All-Star Game.

Sutton, the ace right-hander of the Los Angles Dodgers, and Palmer, Baltimore's right-handed stopper, have fared well in previous All-Star appearances. Sutton, making his first start, has blanked the American League in five previous innings, while Palmer has hurled eight scoreless innings against the National League.

Palmer started in 1970 and 1972 without picking up a decision, but was a middle-inning reliever in 1971, the last time the AL beat the NL. Besides the five straight victories, the NL has won 13 of the last 14 All-Star confrontations.

"The starting assignment is a treat in one respect. Not many guys get to do this," said Palmer, whose career record is 20-11 against the Yankees. "The All-Star Games really haven't been so one-sided recently. Only the results have been."

The AL's chances would seem better if injuries had not ransacked its pitching staff. Out with assorted ailments are Mark Fidrych of Detroit, Frank Tanana of California and Vida Blue of Oakland. California's Nolan Ryan refused to play, leaving the AL with only three starting pitchers and four relievers.

"Despite all our injuries, I still think we have an outstanding squad and we're going to break that (losing) streak," AL President Lee MacPhail said Monday.

Chub Feeney, the NL president, smugly countered MacPhail's pep talk by saying, "We expect to do what we usually do."

Sutton relishes the opportunity to start for the NL, a dream come true for the pitcher who wanted to become a Yankee during the team's penny-pinching days.

"Only the fact that the Yankees weren't willing to pay me more than $2,000, and I would have played in Yankee Stadium before," Sutton said. "I spent all my childhood dreaming of one day pitching in Yankee Stadium.

"I grew up on a farm in Pensacola, (Fla.), and I occupied my days pitching mental shutouts with Mickey Mantle making the last out catching the ball near the monuments."

Sutton won't be on the mound to watch the final out, giving way to another pitcher, probably after three innings if NL Manager Sparky Anderson's game plan is not torpedoed by the AL bats.

It was somewhat of a surprise that Anderson, the Cincinnati skipper, was starting Sutton, with whom he has had a running feud, accusing the Dodgers' ace of illegal pitching practices. Anderson maintains that Sutton attempts to make a round ball square, or some other shape, through some devious method.

"I knew I was a cinch to start when I got a note from Sparky last week asking me what grain of sandpaper I wanted him to order," joked Sutton.

Before Anderson's announcement, Cincinnati's Tom Seaver was expected to get the starting nod, giving the New York fans an opportunity to welcome him back following last month's trade from the Mets to the Reds.

Seaver will pitch some time, said Anderson, whose pitching staff is weighted down by injuries to John Candelaria of Pittsburgh, Steve Carlton of Philadelphia and Joaquin Andujar of Houston.

That leaves the NL with Gary Lavelle of San Francisco, Rich Gossage of Pittsburgh, Rick Reuschel of Chicago, Seaver and Sutton.

The AL staff includes Sparky Lyle of New York, Bill Campbell of Boston, Jim Kern of Cleveland and Dave LaRoche of California—all relievers. The starters on the staff are Palmer, Jim Slaton of Milwaukee and Dennis Eckersley of Cleveland. AL Manager Billy Martin of the Yankees said he was leaning toward Eckersley to relieve Palmer.

The NL starting lineup will have Cincinnati second baseman Joe Morgan leading off, followed by first baseman Steve Garvey of Los Angeles and Dave Parker of Pittsburgh, who will be playing right field. George Foster of Cincinnati will bat cleanup and play centerfield. Then the NL will send up left fielder Greg Luzinski of Philadelphia, third baseman Ron Cey of Los Angeles, catcher Johnny Bench of Cincinnati and shortstop Dave Concepcion of Cincinnati.

Campbell hurls past I-SC

By DALE FORBIS
Daily Standard Sportswriter

Rickety, old VFW Stadium has seen some good ballgames during its many years of service. It was the scene of yet another Monday night when a pair of teams made up of 14 and 15-year-olds, played like veterans in a 2-1 dogfight. The only problem was : You had to be a night owl to see it.

There is no 10-run rule in Junior Babe Ruth Tournament play and it takes a long time to decide games by scores of 24-3 and 18-2. Therefore, the last contest started just before 11 p.m. Those who weren't put off by the first two farces were in many cases sent home by the clock. Many others, however, sensed what was to happen when the talented squads from Illmo-Scott City and Sikeston tangeled, so the contest wasn't played in total solitude.

Chaffee won the first losers' bracket game rather decisively, 24-3, over Dexter. Chaffee scored three in the first, retired Dexter 1-2-3, scored six more in the second -- and then things really got bad for the Dexter nine.

Six Chaffee batters came up with a couple hits each and the winners rapped 15 safeties. Dexter did their part as well, contributing a less-than-imposing total of 13 errors and eight walks.

New Madrid County didn't win by 21 runs, but they did a complete job of sending the Jackson entry home as well. New Madrid scored four in the first, five in the third and six in the fourth enroute to an 18-2 rout. Winning pitcher David Palmer hurled a three-hitter. Kevin St. Mary and Palmer each had three hits.

Jackson was guilty of nine errors in another game that would make a baseball purist wince.

But, for the many who did, the long wait was worth it. Sikeston righty Scott Campbell hooked up in a duel with Jeff Schott of I-SC and, at 1:15 in the moring, it was Sikeston who remained unbeaten and earned a berth in the finals.

Campbell whiffed 15 Illmo-Scott City batters, striking out the side three times, and allowed only three hits. Schott, who had just hurled a two-hit shutout on Saturday, gave Sikeston only four hits. Three were doubles and two of the safeties were run-producing.

Campbell drove in the first run himself. Rodney Dock led off with a walk, stole second and Schott hung a high one to the Sikeston pitcher. Campbell belted the ball high over Kenny Reinagel's head in left and Sikeston led 1-0

Campbell fanned four in the first. He struck out Marty Dover on a 2-2 curve in the dirt, but the ball eluded the catcher and went to the screen. Dover flashed to second on a wild pitch and scored with two out on an infield throwing error.

Then, Scott City threatened in the bottom of the second when Scott Little wallped a 380-foot triple to deepest left center. The shot came with two out and Campbell threw three strikes by the next batter.

Dock scored the winning run in the third. The Sikeston secondsacker reached when his bouncer to first was misplayed for an error. He stole second and scored on Andy Rodgers' clutch, two-out hit up the middle.

Sikeston had one more good shot at scoring in the sixth. Brad Noel walked to start the inning and Lasater again doubled the left. Kenny Reinagel's throw to the plate beat Noel and catcher Gary Innis held the ball despite a collision.

The partisan crowd had some tense moments in the seventh when Innis' slow grounder was booted leading off. Campbell even looked tired to some, but evidently not to the Illmo-Scott City batters. Consistently ahead on the count, Campbell struck out the last three batters he faced. The winning hurler didn't walk a man all night and had a three-ball count only once.

Chaffee and New Madrid County will square off tonight at V. F. W., starting at 6:30, in a losers' bracket game. Then, the winner of that game will face Illmo-Scott City at 8:30.

Namath considers self Rams' second stringer

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — Joe Namath doesn't think defenders will be any tougher on him as a Los Angeles Rams quarterback than they were during his 12 years with the New York Jets.

There had been repots that opponents took it easy on him in recent years because the Jets were not in title contention.

"I think they've been as physical on me as they could be on anyone," the new member of Rams said at a news conference Monday. "If any man goes light on any opponent, it comes out in the films and the coaches won't like it at all. The name of this game is to harass the quarterback."

Namath became a free agent this year and was signed by Los Angeles May 12.

He worked out with the club for the first time Monday.

Namath currently is the No. 2 quarterback, behind young Pat Haden, the former University of Southern California star who earned the job last year.

Namath admits he wants to be No. 1 and will work hard to become the starter. He also would like to call his own signals even though he knows the Rams' coaches have been doing it the past three seasons since John Hadl was traded to Green Bay.

"I'm trying to do well in a new situation," the 34-year-old Namath said. "This is a new situation, new numbers and new terminology. Until everything becomes familiar, I can't be confident."

Namath even listened in on conversations between coaches and defensive linemen in his bid to become familiar with the Rams' system.

Asked if he considered himself the starting quarterback, Namath said, "No ... I'm second string.

"Pat and I talked last night. He said he felt strange in this situation, but as long as I've been playing football, the man who does the best job starts. We all have a common goal, to win."

Haden agreed it would be an interesting situation and said he would learn a lot from the veteran who has been assigned as his roommate during the early training period.

Jackson masters Murray

MURRAY,Ky. -- Larry Jackson of Sikeston, who only last week signed a baseball scholarship to attend Arkansas State University at Jonesboro, apparently is out to prove that he deserved it.

Jackson mastered Murray, Ky. with a no-hitter Sunday in the first game of an American Legion doubleheader in the Bluegrass State, propelling Scott County to a 3-0 victory. Scott County completed the twinbill sweep with a 4-3 triumph in the nightcap.

Murray had only two baserunners off the hard-throwing righthander in the first game. Keeping the Murray hitters guessing with an effective fastball and curve, Jackson allowed only a walk and an error in the seven-inning contest. Neither runner advanced past first base.

Scott County opened the scoring in the first, when Russell Deal's squeeze bunt plated brother Dale, who had walked.

Still another Sikestonian, Jeff Limbaugh, figured in the Scott County effort in the sixth, clubbing a solo home run. Later in the inning, Jackson walked and scored on Mike Brock's double.

The second game, although a low-scoring affair, saw four Scott County hurlers take the mound. Dave Robert started, but lasted only an inning before coming up with a sore arm. Chris Torbett relieved and worked three, but he was felled by a line drive that forced him off the mound. Jackson, the no-hit pitcher in the first game, took over for Torbett, but was not as effective this time. L.J. lasted only a third of an inning before Scott Wadlington came on to finish up. Torbett got credit for the victory.

Murray jumped ahead 2-0 in the first, but Jackson's sacrifice fly in the third scored Limbaugh to make it 2-1. Scott County got three in the fourth on singles by Torbett, Wadlington, Lindy Duncan and Limbaugh. Murray added their final run in the fifth.

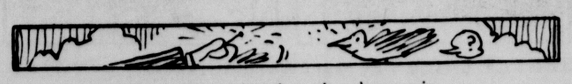

Swimmers third at Ste. Genevieve

STE. GENEVIEVE -- An always strong team from Calvert City, Kentucky dominated the Ste. Genevieve Invitational Swim Meet on Saturday, and with many Sikeston swimmers unable to make the trip, the local team placed third behind the same Ste. Genevieve team they had soundly beaten at the Sikeston Meet a few days earlier. Only two Sikeston swimmers were able to capture first place ribbons in individual events in the 6 team meet: Beth Mitchell swam her way to first place honors in the breaststroke, and Diane Moore placed first in backstroke competition.

In the relay events the Sikeson Sikeston swimmers made a good showing. The boys 8 and under team of Levin Cox, Bobby Blanton, Greg Lathum and David Newton won first place in both medley relay and freestyle relay aas did the boys 15 to 17 team of John Sides, Alan Oliver, Mark Blanton, and Phil Dupont. The Girls 8 and under team of Beth Mitchell, Carolyn Shell, Lori Burden and Ellen Hahs placed first in freestyle relay and second in medley relay. Boys 9 and 10 and boys 13 and 14 finished second in both events, with the 11 and 12 year old boys placing third in both. Because of absent swimmers, the Sikeston team was unable to enter any other girls relay teams.

Second place ribbons in one or more individual events were awarded to Beth Mitchell, Julie Sides, Diane Moore, Diane Dillon, Patrick Hahs, Phil Dupont, John Sides, Greg Lathum, Alan Oliver, Vincent Dupont, and Mark Blanton.

Campbell hurls past I-SC

By DALE FORBIS
Daily Standard Sportswriter

Rickety, old VFW Stadium has seen some good ballgames during its many years of service. It was the scene of yet another Monday night when a pair of teams made up of 14 and 15-year-olds, played like veterans in a 2-1 dogfight. The only problem was : You had to be a night owl to see it.

There is no 10-run rule in Junior Babe Ruth Tournament play and it takes a long time to decide games by scores of 24-3 and 18-2. Therefore, the last contest started just before 11 p.m. Those who weren't put off by the first two farces were in many cases sent home by the clock. Many others, however, sensed what was to happen when the talented squads from Illmo-Scott City and Sikeston tangeled, so the contest wasn't played in total solitude.

Chaffee won the first losers' bracket game rather decisively, 24-3, over Dexter. Chaffee scored three in the first, retired Dexter 1-2-3, scored six more in the second -- and then things really got bad for the Dexter nine.

Six Chaffee batters came up with a couple hits each and the winners rapped 15 safeties. Dexter did their part as well, contributing a less-than-imposing total of 13 errors and eight walks.

New Madrid County didn't win by 21 runs, but they did a complete job of sending the Jackson entry home as well. New Madrid scored four in the first, five in the third and six in the fourth enroute to an 18-2 rout. Winning pitcher David Palmer hurled a three-hitter. Kevin St. Mary and Palmer each had three hits.

Jackson was guilty of nine errors in another game that would make a baseball purist wince.

But, for the many who did, the long wait was worth it. Sikeston righty Scott Campbell hooked up in a duel with Jeff Schott of I-SC and, at 1:15 in the moring, it was Sikeston who remained unbeaten and earned a berth in the finals.

Campbell whiffed 15 Illmo-Scott City batters, striking out the side three times, and allowed only three hits. Schott, who had just hurled a two-hit shutout on Saturday, gave Sikeston only four hits. Three were doubles and two of the safeties were run-producing.

Campbell drove in the first run himself. Rodney Dock led off with a walk, stole second and Schott hung a high one to the Sikeston pitcher. Campbell belted the ball high over Kenny Reinagel's head in left and Sikeston led 1-0

Campbell fanned four in the first. He struck out Marty Dover on a 2-2 curve in the dirt, but the ball eluded the catcher and went to the screen. Dover flashed to second on a wild pitch and scored with two out on an infield throwing error.

Then, Scott City threatened in the bottom of the second when Scott Little wallped a 380-foot triple to deepest left center. The shot came with two out and Campbell threw three strikes by the next batter.

Dock scored the winning run in the third. The Sikeston secondsacker reached when his bouncer to first was misplayed for an error. He stole second and scored on Andy Rodgers' clutch, two-out hit up the middle.

Sikeston had one more good shot at scoring in the sixth. Brad Noel walked to start the inning and Lasater again doubled the left. Kenny Reinagel's throw to the plate beat Noel and catcher Gary Innis held the ball despite a collision.

The partisan crowd had some tense moments in the seventh when Innis' slow grounder was booted leading off. Campbell even looked tired to some, but evidently not to the Illmo-Scott City batters. Consistently ahead on the count, Campbell struck out the last three batters he faced. The winning hurler didn't walk a man all night and had a three-ball count only once.

Chaffee and New Madrid County will square off tonight at V. F. W., starting at 6:30, in a losers' bracket game. Then, the winner of that game will face Illmo-Scott City at 8:30.

Namath considers self Rams' second stringer

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — Joe Namath doesn't think defenders will be any tougher on him as a Los Angeles Rams quarterback than they were during his 12 years with the New York Jets.

There had been repots that opponents took it easy on him in recent years because the Jets were not in title contention.

"I think they've been as physical on me as they could be on anyone," the new member of Rams said at a news conference Monday. "If any man goes light on any opponent, it comes out in the films and the coaches won't like it at all. The name of this game is to harass the quarterback."

Namath became a free agent this year and was signed by Los Angeles May 12.

He worked out with the club for the first time Monday.

Namath currently is the No. 2 quarterback, behind young Pat Haden, the former University of Southern California star who earned the job last year.

Namath admits he wants to be No. 1 and will work hard to become the starter. He also would like to call his own signals even though he knows the Rams' coaches have been doing it the past three seasons since John Hadl was traded to Green Bay.

"I'm trying to do well in a new situation," the 34-year-old Namath said. "This is a new situation, new numbers and new terminology. Until everything becomes familiar, I can't be confident."

Namath even listened in on conversations between coaches and defensive linemen in his bid to become familiar with the Rams' system.

Asked if he considered himself the starting quarterback, Namath said, "No ... I'm second string.

"Pat and I talked last night. He said he felt strange in this situation, but as long as I've been playing football, the man who does the best job starts. We all have a common goal, to win."

Haden agreed it would be an interesting situation and said he would learn a lot from the veteran who has been assigned as his roommate during the early training period.

Jackson masters Murray

MURRAY,Ky. -- Larry Jackson of Sikeston, who only last week signed a baseball scholarship to attend Arkansas State University at Jonesboro, apparently is out to prove that he deserved it.

Jackson mastered Murray, Ky. with a no-hitter Sunday in the first game of an American Legion doubleheader in the Bluegrass State, propelling Scott County to a 3-0 victory. Scott County completed the twinbill sweep with a 4-3 triumph in the nightcap.

Murray had only two baserunners off the hard-throwing righthander in the first game. Keeping the Murray hitters guessing with an effective fastball and curve, Jackson allowed only a walk and an error in the seven-inning contest. Neither runner advanced past first base.

Scott County opened the scoring in the first, when Russell Deal's squeeze bunt plated brother Dale, who had walked.

Still another Sikestonian, Jeff Limbaugh, figured in the Scott County effort in the sixth, clubbing a solo home run. Later in the inning, Jackson walked and scored on Mike Brock's double.

The second game, although a low-scoring affair, saw four Scott County hurlers take the mound. Dave Robert started, but lasted only an inning before coming up with a sore arm. Chris Torbett relieved and worked three, but he was felled by a line drive that forced him off the mound. Jackson, the no-hit pitcher in the first game, took over for Torbett, but was not as effective this time. L.J. lasted only a third of an inning before Scott Wadlington came on to finish up. Torbett got credit for the victory.

Murray jumped ahead 2-0 in the first, but Jackson's sacrifice fly in the third scored Limbaugh to make it 2-1. Scott County got three in the fourth on singles by Torbett, Wadlington, Lindy Duncan and Limbaugh. Murray added their final run in the fifth.

Because of absent swimmers, the Sikeston team was unable to enter any other girls relay teams.

Second place ribbons in one or more individual events were awarded to Beth Mitchell, Julie Sides, Diane Moore, Diane Dillon, Patrick Hahs, Phil Dupont, John Sides, Greg Lathum, Alan Oliver, Vincent Dupont, and Mark Blanton.

Today in U.S. history

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, July 19th, the 200th day of 1977. There are 165 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1918, in World War I, German armies began a retreat across the Marne River in France after failure of their last big offensive on French soil.

On this date —

In 1776, the Continental Congress in Philadelphia resolved that the Declaration of Independence be engrossed on parchment and signed by all members of the congress.

In 1870, the Franco-Prussian War began after the Prussians refused to guarantee France that they would not seek the Spanish throne.

In 1941, the Allied "V for Victory" campaign in World War II was launched in a broadcast by Britain's Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

Today in U.S. history

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, July 19th, the 200th day of 1977. There are 165 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1918, in World War I, German armies began a retreat across the Marne River in France after failure of their last big offensive on French soil.

On this date —

In 1776, the Continental Congress in Philadelphia resolved that the Declaration of Independence be engrossed on parchment and signed by all members of the congress.

In 1870, the Franco-Prussian War began after the Prussians refused to guarantee France that they would not seek the Spanish throne.

In 1941, the Allied "V for Victory" campaign in World War II was launched in a broadcast by Britain's Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

In 1963, New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller called upon Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater to disavow what Rockefeller described as the "radical right wing" which was supporting Goldwater for the 1964 Republican presidential nomation.

In 1965, President Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria was deposed in a bloodless army coup.

Ten years ago: Eighty-two people were killed when an airliner and a small plane collided and crashed over Hendersonville, N.C..

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon's adviser on national security affairs, Henry A. Kissinger, had talks with North Vietnamese representatives in Paris, but there was no disclosure of what was discussed.

2. Card of Thanks

Let us take this means of offering our most sincere appreciation to all those who were so thoughtful in visiting, calling, sending flowers, gifts and cards, and offering prayers during the stay of Herman Parks in Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston. Your many acts of kindness will never be forgotten. The C. Herman Parks Family.

7-19-77

Words are so small and insignificant when we try to express our feelings of gratitude and appreciation to the many people that helped us through our time of bereavement. May we just say thank you to Jack and Ollie and all the co-workers of the Amick-Burnett funeral home, the Oran Methodist Church, the Masonic body, Frisco friends, Rev. Butler, for the food and flowers, those who visited and of course for the many prayers. Thank you. The Family of James E. Cheek.

2. Card of Thanks

Let us take this means of offering our most sincere appreciation to all those who were so thoughtful in visiting, calling, sending flowers, gifts and cards, and offering prayers during the stay of Herman Parks in Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston. Your many acts of kindness will never be forgotten. The C. Herman Parks Family.

7-19-77

Words are so small and insignificant when we try to express our feelings of gratitude and appreciation to the many people that helped us through our time of bereavement. May we just say thank you to Jack and Ollie and all the co-workers of the Amick-Burnett funeral home, the Oran Methodist Church, the Masonic body, Frisco friends, Rev. Butler, for the food and flowers, those who visited and of course for the many prayers. Thank you. The Family of James E. Cheek.

Woman's body found in home

NEW MADRID -- Beatrice Sims, 67, of 227 Pinnell St. was found dead at 11 a.m. Sunday at her home by a neighbor.

New Madrid County Coroner Gene Clayton ruled death was due to natural causes and said she had apparently died between 5 and 10 p.m. Friday.

According to Clayton, the body was found sitting upright on a couch across the room from an electric fan that was operating. Neighbors, who had talked with the woman about 5 p.m. Friday, said she had been trimming hedges and complained of not feeling well.

A friend of Mrs. Sims had phoned at 10 p.m. Friday and did not get an answer. On Sunday, when she failed to go to church, a neighbor checked to see about her and found the body.

Born July 13,1910 in New Madrid, she was a daughter of the late Johnny and Lucy Washington Sims.

She is survived by one son, Milton L. Minner of Lorain, Ohio.

Services were conducted at 2 p.m. today in Richards Funeral Home by the Rev. Andrew Waters of Cairo, Ill.

Burial followed in Evergreen Cemetery.

would be $9 or more.

The council agreed not to continue resurfacing at this time and also agreed that other improvements discussed for Kingshighway and Howard, Lewis, Waters, Powell and Church streets would be tabled because of the high cost. They will not be reconsidered unless requested by the fronting property owners.

Administrator Don Lloyd told the council that a representative from the department of Housing and Urban Development last week informed him that the department had received approval for 40 additional public housing units for the city and that construction could possibly begin as soon as early spring.

The city last December had authorized the application to the Missouri Housing Alliance for the 40 units to be built by Missouri Housing Associates and leased to the city.

In other matters, the council waived the requirement that buildings be set back five feet from the property line and gave approval to Luke Howard, owner and operator of a package store, at 341 Line St., to construct a storage room, which will be two feet from the property line.

Alderman Joe Beaher said weeds are a problem in several areas and that an abandoned house on Old Kingshighway near Cargill Grain has not been torn down. He was advised that this property and others has been posted as a nuisance and a health hazard and that the city can proceed to tear down or take other action after Aug. 1.

Alderman Dick St. Mary said several streets have not been swept and was told that the street sweeper is broken down and being repaired.

Completion of the levee paving on the south side of town was briefly touched on and the completion of the Main Street ramp paving was noted. Other paving was discussed for ramps on the levee at the Atlantic Richfield Oil and Gas terminal entrance and exit and was tabled until a study is made.

calculated by a study of rainfall intensities and durations.

Only then could a preliminary design and cost estimate of needed sewers be prepared.

At a meeting earlier this month, Smarr said that during times of heavy rain water stands on streets and is especially bad on Williams Drive, between Grant and Fannetta streets.

The problem is so bad, he said, property values in the area have dropped to nearly nothing.

Gaines agreed that there is a problem, but waid the runoff is of short duration and not serious enough to cause massive property damage or be a danger to life.

Storm sewers can be designed to carry runoff, but will not carry all the water during the heaviest rains. "No storm sewers are designed to handle all conditions," Gaines said.

In addition, storm sewers are extremely expensive.

Making the problem even more complicated, extensive work would be required on drainage ditches outside of town. If the work is not done, extensive storm sewers would be useless.

Earlier this month, Smarr predicted the problem would get worse as construction continues in the area.

Gaines warned that while storm sewers can help, they "are not a substitute for proper planning."

As more parking lots are built, more streets paved and more woods removed to make way for houses, the problem will get worse, he said.

"The only way to keep from it is to build impoundment reservoirs or go upstream and plant trees," Gaines explained.

"Why spend $30,000 to get all this information and then have no place to take the water and if it's too big a rain it won't carry it to the ditch anyway?" Alderman Les Day asked.

The council voted to table the matter until a later time, when som money might be available.

The council agreed to pay Trotter Associates for the preliminary report submitted to it Monday night.

The council also decided to buy three new police cars from Bud Shell Ford of Dexter at a cost of $3,950 each with trade-in.

The Ford dealership submitted the lowest bid dor the cars. Medler-Davis Chevrolet and Evans Buick also submitted bids.

The cars are 1978 models and will be delivered later this year.

At a previous council meeting, a senior citizens group asked the city for assistance.

At the request of Mayor Willis Conner, city attorney Paul McGhee looked into the matter and determined that the city cannot legally give the group any money, but can help in other ways.

The city can provide such services to senior citizens as swimming pools, parks and libraries and can appoint a committee to oversee possible aids to senior citizens.

The council took no action in that direction Monday night.

A public hearing was held in connection with the meeting on annexations of the city cemetery. No comments were heard for or against the proposal.

The council voted to annex the cemetery.

In other business, the council learned a computer terminal has been installed at the police station, set a public hearing on Aug. 15 on annexation of the city airport and set a public hearing for Aug. 1 on the setting of the city tax rate.

East Prairie police investigate thefts

EAST PRAIRIE – An attempted burglary Monday night, a house burglary and the theft of a motorcycle have been investigated by the East Prairie Police Department.

Police were notified at 11:50 p.m. Monday that someone was inside the building. When the patrol car approached the building the suspect was outside attempting to start a small sized mororbike. The suspect fled on foot when he couldn't get the bike started, but later turned himself over to police.

Officers involved in the investigation and arrest were Danny Lafferty, Kenneth Sisk and Gary Sisk.

The home of Harlen Ogle, 215 S. Washington St., was discovered burglarized at 4 p.m. Monday. The burglary is believed to have occurred sometime between July 1 and July 18 while the family was away.

Among household furnishings taken, valued at $1,165, were a micro-wave oven, mantle clock, set of silverware, and an acordian case.

It appeared that a carport door at the rear of the house had been unlocked with a pair of channel pliers. Only minor damage was done to the door. Officers Jerry Barker and Mark Crocker investigated.

Kenneth Counts reported Monday that a 1973 red Havaka motorcycle with crome fenders have been stolen sometime Sunday night or early Monday morning while it was parked at his home at 706 Grand St.

Bank certificate stolen from purse

A bank certificate worth $1000, plants and a license plate have been reported stolen, according to the Public Safety Department.

Lena Hahs, 222 Dorothy St., reported the theft of a bank certificate worth $1,000 from a purse in a closet in her house.

She told officers she bought the certificate July 14 and put it in a purse that she left in the closet. Monday morning she went to get it to give it to her grandchildren and found it missing.

Officers said they could find no sign of forced entry.

A spokesman at the Bank of Sikeston told officers that the certificate would be canceled and a new one issued to Mrs. Hahs.

Three plants worth $29 were taken from the Collean .Miller home, 223 W. Gladys St.

The theft was discovered Saturday morning and reported Monday.

A license plate was taken from the rear of a car belonging to Carl Michael Rouse, 109 Taylor St., sometime within the last month while the car was parked behind the used car office at Semo Motor Co., 417 North Main St. The theft was reported Monday.

Poplar Bluff band fulfills dream to visit Mexico

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo. (AP) — A special invitation followed by a gargantuan community effort gave approximately 130 young Poplar Bluff residents their chance of a lifetime.

Poplar Bluff is a city of 17,000 steeped in football tradition. The tradition remains, but more and more people are going to high school football games just to watch the school's band perform at halftime.

Bil Salyer directs the Poplar Bluff Senior High School Sho-Me Marching Band. Each year his group adds new laurels to its already overflowing trophy case.

When the band was selected to play at halftime of a St. Louis Cardinal football game last winter, band members thought that would be the biggest thrill of the year. As it turned out, the St. Louis trip would have to take a back seat to what would occur this summer.

In January Salyer learned that his unit had been selected as the best marching band in the state by a poll of Missouri college band directors. As a result, Poplar Bluff was chosen to represent Missouri during a 12-day summer music festival in Mexico.

The school administration and board of education saluted the band, but the salute did not include any money for the trip. That left the band with only four months to raise $50,000.

A professional fund raiser was engaged, but his efforts netted only $15,000. The band organized its own campaign and got all of Poplar Bluff involved. A week before the scheduled departure for Mexico, the Sho-Me Band had $51,338.19.

Bands from five other states were to perform with Poplar Bluff in the first segment of the festival. Two couldn't get the permission of their school administrators. The other three couldn't raise expense money.

During the second and third weeks of June, the Sho-Me Band's dream came true. The high school musicians paraded down streets in Mexico City, gave a concert for a mayor in a small Mexican town and performed for tourists and residents of Acapulco.

In one town, the band members arrived to find thousands of people along its parade route. At the end of the march, Mexican youngsters besieged them for autographs. The city's mayor feted them with a luncheon.

One afternoon, while they were gathered in full regalia at Chapultepec National Park in Mexico City for a group picture, a large group of people gathered in front of them. Since they obviously expected a concert, the band performed.

A concert was scheduled at the 100,000-seat Aztec Stadium in Mexico City between halves of a soccer match. The musicians were awed by the stadium but rain washed out their performance.

Returning to Poplar Bluff, band members sported sun tans from Acapulco. They told of swimming in the ocean, climbing the huge Aztec Pyramid of the Sun, touring museums and bartering for goods in open-air market places.

Car hits meter

Public safety officers were called to stand by a broken gas meter at the Jerrell Brashear home, 709 Troy St. after a car hit the meter about 7:10 p.m. Monday, according to the fire division of the Public Safety Department.

There was no fire.

RESOLUTION

A RESOLUTION DECLARING THE NECESSITY FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF ONE AND ONE-HALF INCH HOTMIX ASPHALTIC PAVEMENT ON A STABILIZED BASE WITH CONCRETE CURB AND GUTTERS ON BLANTON STREET FROM THE WEST SIDE OF DEMPSTER STREET TO THE NORTH SIDE OF BUTLER STREET. IN THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MISSOURI; STATING THE NATURE OF THE IMPROVEMENT; THE ESTIMATED COST AND PROVIDING THAT PAYMENT FOR ALL OF THE IMPROVEMENT SHALL BE MADE BY SPECIAL TAX BILLS LEVIED AND ASSESSED AGAINST THE ABUTTING PROPERTY.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SIKESTON, STATE OF MISSOURI AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said improvement in accordance with the plans and specifications necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston.

Section 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials, and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement.

Section 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $8.50 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement.

Section 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the Statutes of the State of Missouri and the Ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council, the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement.

Section 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri.

Section 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that is shall be published for seven consecutive insertions.

Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 5th day of July, 1977.

Woman's body found in home

NEW MADRID – Beatrice Sims, 67, of 227 Pinnell St. was found dead at 11 a.m. Sunday at her home by a neighbor.

New Madrid County Coroner Gene Clayton ruled death was due to natural causes and said she had apparently died between 5 and 10 p.m. Friday.

According to Clayton, the body was found sitting upright on a couch across the room from an electric fan that was operating. Neighbors, who had talked with the woman about 5 p.m. Friday, said she had been trimming hedges and complained of not feeling well.

A friend of Mrs. Sims had phoned at 10 p.m. Friday and did not get an answer. On Sunday, when she failed to go to church, a neighbor checked to see about her and found the body.

Born July 13,1910 in New Madrid, she was a daughter of the late Johnny and Lucy Washington Sims.

She is survived by one son, Milton L. Minner of Lorain, Ohio.

Services were conducted at 2 p.m. today in Richards Funeral Home by the Rev. Andrew Waters of Cairo, Ill.

Burial followed in Evergreen Cemetery.

would be $9 or more.

The council agreed not to continue resurfacing at this time and also agreed that other improvements discussed for Kingshighway and Howard, Lewis, Waters, Powell and Church streets would be tabled because of the high cost. They will not be reconsidered unless requested by the fronting property owners.

Administrator Don Lloyd told the council that a representative from the department of Housing and Urban Development last week informed him that the department had received approval for 40 additional public housing units for the city and that construction could possibly begin as soon as early spring.

The city last December had authorized the application to the Missouri Housing Alliance for the 40 units to be built by Missouri Housing Associates and leased to the city.

In other matters, the council waived the requirement that buildings be set back five feet from the property line and gave approval to Luke Howard, owner and operator of a package store, at 341 Line St., to construct a storage room, which will be two feet from the property line.

Alderman Joe Beaher said weeds are a problem in several areas and that an abandoned house on Old Kingshighway near Cargill Grain has not been torn down. He was advised that this property and others has been posted as a nuisance and a health hazard and that the city can proceed to tear down or take other action after Aug. 1.

Alderman Dick St. Mary said several streets have not been swept and was told that the street sweeper is broken down and being repaired.

Completion of the levee paving on the south side of town was briefly touched on and the completion of the Main Street ramp paving was noted. Other paving was discussed for ramps on the levee at the Atlantic Richfield Oil and Gas terminal entrance and exit and was tabled until a study is made.

calculated by a study of rainfall intensities and durations.

Only then could a preliminary design and cost estimate of needed sewers be prepared.

At a meeting earlier this month, Smarr said that during times of heavy rain water stands on streets and is especially bad on Williams Drive, between Grant and Fannetta streets.

The problem is so bad, he said, property values in the area have dropped to nearly nothing.

Gaines agreed that there is a problem, but waid the runoff is of short duration and not serious enough to cause massive property damage or be a danger to life.

Storm sewers can be designed to carry runoff, but will not carry all the water during the heaviest rains. "No storm sewers are designed to handle all conditions," Gaines said.

In addition, storm sewers are extremely expensive.

Making the problem even more complicated, extensive work would be required on drainage ditches outside of town. If the work is not done, extensive storm sewers would be useless.

Earlier this month, Smarr predicted the problem would get worse as construction continues in the area.

Gaines warned that while storm sewers can help, they "are not a substitute for proper planning."

As more parking lots are built, more streets paved and more woods removed to make way for houses, the problem will get worse, he said.

"The only way to keep from it is to build impoundment reservoirs or go upstream and plant trees," Gaines explained.

"Why spend $30,000 to get all this information and then have no place to take the water and if it's too big a rain it won't carry it to the ditch anyway?" Alderman Les Day asked.

The council voted to table the matter until a later time, when som money might be available.

The council agreed to pay Trotter Associates for the preliminary report submitted to it Monday night.

The council also decided to buy three new police cars from Bud Shell Ford of Dexter at a cost of $3,950 each with trade-in.

The Ford dealership submitted the lowest bid dor the cars. Medler-Davis Chevrolet and Evans Buick also submitted bids.

The cars are 1978 models and will be delivered later this year.

At a previous council meeting, a senior citizens group asked the city for assistance.

At the request of Mayor Willis Conner, city attorney Paul McGhee looked into the matter and determined that the city cannot legally give the group any money, but can help in other ways.

The city can provide such services to senior citizens as swimming pools, parks and libraries and can appoint a committee to oversee possible aids to senior citizens.

The council took no action in that direction Monday night.

A public hearing was held in connection with the meeting on annexations of the city cemetery. No comments were heard for or against the proposal.

The council voted to annex the cemetery.

In other business, the council learned a computer terminal has been installed at the police station, set a public hearing on Aug. 15 on annexation of the city airport and set a public hearing for Aug. 1 on the setting of the city tax rate.

East Prairie police investigate thefts

EAST PRAIRIE – An attempted burglary Monday night, a house burglary and the theft of a motorcycle have been investigated by the East Prairie Police Department.

Police were notified at 11:50 p.m. Monday that someone was inside the building. When the patrol car approached the building the suspect was outside attempting to start a small sized mororbike. The suspect fled on foot when he couldn't get the bike started, but later turned himself over to police.

Officers involved in the investigation and arrest were Danny Lafferty, Kenneth Sisk and Gary Sisk.

The home of Harlen Ogle, 215 S. Washington St., was discovered burglarized at 4 p.m. Monday. The burglary is believed to have occurred sometime between July 1 and July 18 while the family was away.

Among household furnishings taken, valued at $1,165, were a micro-wave oven, mantle clock, set of silverware, and an acordian case.

It appeared that a carport door at the rear of the house had been unlocked with a pair of channel pliers. Only minor damage was done to the door. Officers Jerry Barker and Mark Crocker investigated.

Kenneth Counts reported Monday that a 1973 red Havaka motorcycle with crome fenders have been stolen sometime Sunday night or early Monday morning while it was parked at his home at 706 Grand St.

Bank certificate stolen from purse

A bank certificate worth $1000, plants and a license plate have been reported stolen, according to the Public Safety Department.

Lena Hahs, 222 Dorothy St., reported the theft of a bank certificate worth $1,000 from a purse in a closet in her house.

She told officers she bought the certificate July 14 and put it in a purse that she left in the closet. Monday morning she went to get it to give it to her grandchildren and found it missing.

Officers said they could find no sign of forced entry.

A spokesman at the Bank of Sikeston told officers that the certificate would be canceled and a new one issued to Mrs. Hahs.

Three plants worth $29 were taken from the Collean Miller home, 223 W. Gladys St.

The theft was discovered Saturday morning and reported Monday.

A license plate was taken from the rear of a car belonging to Carl Michael Rouse, 109 Taylor St., sometime within the last month while the car was parked behind the used car office at Semo Motor Co., 417 North Main St. The theft was reported Monday.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo. (AP) — A special invitation followed by a gargantuan community effort gave approximately 130 young Poplar Bluff residents their chance of a lifetime.

Poplar Bluff is a city of 17,000 steeped in football tradition. The tradition remains, but more and more people are going to high school football games just to watch the school's band perform at halftime.

Bil Salyer directs the Poplar Bluff Senior High School Sho-Me Marching Band. Each year his group adds new laurels to its already overflowing trophy case.

When the band was selected to play at halftime of a St. Louis Cardinal football game last winter, band members thought that would be the biggest thrill of the year. As it turned out, the St. Louis trip would have to take a back seat to what would occur this summer.

In January Salyer learned that his unit had been selected as the best marching band in the state by a poll of Missouri college band directors. As a result, Poplar Bluff was chosen to represent Missouri during a 12-day summer music festival in Mexico.

The school administration and board of education saluted the band, but the salute did not include any money for the trip. That left the band with only four months to raise $50,000.

A professional fund raiser was engaged, but his efforts netted only $15,000. The band organized its own campaign and got all of Poplar Bluff involved. A week before the scheduled departure for Mexico, the Sho-Me Band had $51,338.19.

Bands from five other states were to perform with Poplar Bluff in the first segment of the festival. Two couldn't get the permission of their school administrators. The other three couldn't raise expense money.

During the second and third weeks of June, the Sho-Me Band's dream came true. The high school musicians paraded down streets in Mexico City, gave a concert for a mayor in a small Mexican town and performed for tourists and residents of Acapulco.

In one town, the band members arrived to find thousands of people along its parade route. At the end of the march, Mexican youngsters besieged them for autographs. The city's mayor feted them with a luncheon.

One afternoon, while they were gathered in full regalia at Chapultepec National Park in Mexico City for a group picture, a large group of people gathered in front of them. Since they obviously expected a concert, the band performed.

A concert was scheduled at the 100,000-seat Aztec Stadium in Mexico City between halves of a soccer match. The musicians were awed by the stadium but rain washed out their performance.

Returning to Poplar Bluff, band members sported sun tans from Acapulco. They told of swimming in the ocean, climbing the huge Aztec Pyramid of the Sun, touring museums and bartering for goods in open-air market places.

Car hits meter

Public safety officers were called to stand by a broken gas meter at the Jerrell Brashear home, 709 Troy St. after a car hit the meter about 7:10 p.m. Monday, according to the fire division of the Public Safety Department.

There was no fire.
